Visit the 3.5 hectares of Crawleighwood Garden from Thursday to Sunday (except Easter Sunday) during April and enjoy the autumn splendour. (PS)

Attention all garden lovers

Crawleighwood Garden, in its full autumn splendour, will be open to the public throughout the peak of the autumn colours.

Instead of their usual open garden weekend in autumn, owners Penny Wells and Pav Ruzicka, will be opening Crawleighwood Garden from Thursday to Sunday (except Easter Sunday) every week during April.

Garden lovers will be able to visit the garden at a time that suits them rather than being corralled into one weekend.

Maples in their many shapes and forms are a distinct feature of the garden and showcase their best this time of the year.

With its sprawling lawns and parklands, Crawleighwood Garden is a great place to visit with the kids, or to bring a picnic lunch for a lazy afternoon.

And of course, the nursery is a great place for many rare and unusual plants with bargains galore (large rhododendrons are on sale right now!).

Pellet fires the sustainable and effective heating solution

How did you go during last winter, did you make the right choice in heating?

Traditionally in Tasmania, the more popular choices have been heat pumps, also known as reverse cycle air-conditioning, or the traditional wood heater.

In recent years, another player in the heating stakes has emerged, merging consistent and pleasant heat with an eco-friendly angle.

Pellet fires are becoming more popular by the year, and there are many reasons why.

Pellet fires utilise recycled timber waste sawdust as a fuel.

Pellets, when burned, create a consistent heat akin to a wood or gas heater retaining the pleasant feel that comes from combustion heating but retains the convenience of a push button, thermostat controlled heat pump.

They are seen as one of the more environmentally friendly approaches to providing constant heat during the cooler periods due to this fuel source, as sawdust waste traditionally ends up in landfill.

Their popularity has only increased in recent years as a result, along with their reliability during the colder months, and increasing competition in the industry.

Rob Douglas, Managing Director of Pellet Fires Tasmania, is well aware of the heightened interest in pellet fires in recent times.

“The most common reason for buying a pellet fire is for those who appreciate the aesthetics, but don’t want the additional work that comes with maintaining a fireplace.

On top of the emotional appeal of a pellet fire furnace, is the incredible efficiency, which directly translates into huge savings when compared to other forms of heating.

Pellet fuel is also much cheaper than traditional firewood, costing less to run than at the current market rate of $200 per tonne of firewood.

This is set to decrease even further in the future, with heightened interest in the pellet fire industry opening the marketplace up to new competitors.

New suppliers of pellet fuel have emerged, driving the price of the renewable source down by 20 per cent this year alone.

“The market is maturing”, said Rob on what the new suppliers of pellet fuel have done for the industry here in Tasmania.

“The added competition is creating a healthy product, and the industry really is poised to grow.”

When you next think about heating, consider Pellet Fires Tasmania before making your final choice.

Garden care made easy with Stihl Shop Huonville

Your garden should be a source of pride and an oasis of relaxation.

It is also a piece of nature that needs to be cared for and managed effectively.

This can be a fulfilling task to enjoy when reliable tools are available to make gardening easier, such as a quality garden shredder.

Garden shredders are incredibly useful machines, they tidy up waste such as lawn, tree and hedge cuttings, leaves and withered flowers.

A shredder creates space and relieves you of bulky branches, twigs and plant trimmings.

Shredders also reduce the volume of the cuttings, making them easy to dispose of or turning them in to mulch or compost.

In addition, a garden shredder provides valuable raw material for your garden.

Your shredded material contains exactly the right balance of nutrients that your plants need to flourish.

To aid this, the shredder's blade system finely shreds the plant trimmings so that they quickly decompose to form quality fertiliser, allowing you to dispense with artificial fertilisers.

The Stihl Garden Shredder is only available at your local Stihl specialist, where you will receive leading customer service and advice.

The team at Stihl Shop Huonville on Wilmot Road, welcomes everybody to come and learn about all the different tools Stihl offers.

They are more than happy to assist you with your gardening needs.

10% off Honeycomb blinds from the Norman Range during Autumn

info@taylorandstirling.com.au
www.taylorandstirling.com.au

As the colder months are approaching, Taylor & Stirling are offering a 10 per cent discount during Autumn, from their Norman Range of honeycomb blinds.

Honeycomb shades are made with a unique, cellular structured fabric that traps air within pockets to create layers of insulation.

Honeycomb shades come in a number of different styles and efficiencies.

Ranging from single cell 10mm through to 20mm double cell being the most efficient.

All these styles offer differing energy savings all year round.

Honeycomb shades have a comfortable appearance with a low profile and functional design including different methods of control.

Choosing the right honeycomb shades to provide the ultimate insulation, solar heat control, interior daylight control and energy savings depends on your individual requirements.

Save up to 34.1 per cent* more energy with honeycomb shades.

Most of the dwelling's heating and cooling energy can be lost through its windows.

Solar heat passes through windows in summer and indoor heating escapes through the windows in winter.

Indoor and outdoor air circulation also passes through the windows.

Honeycomb shades can significantly protect your home against heat loss in winter and unwanted solar heating in the warmer summer months, creating more comfortable living conditions all year around.

Honeycomb shades will significantly reduce your annual heating and cooling energy costs and lessen your carbon footprint by lowering your home energy consumption.
