Bruny Island resident Belinda Curtis has spoken out about the difficult "catch-22" situation she finds herself in, as a result of COVID-unemployment, low support payments and the rental housing crisis in Hobart.

Locals fall into poverty trap

Bruny Island resident Belinda Curtis has spoken out about the reality of the local housing crisis after losing work during the coronavirus pandemic and becoming financially trapped in what she describes as a "catch-22" poverty situation.

The 42-year-old single mother of three children aged 17, 19 and 21, said she was forced to leave her rented home on Bruny Island due to the loss of guest accommodation services income resulting from border closures in 2020.

Speaking with the Kingborough Chronicle on April 15, Ms Curtis said she is currently staying at the home of her daughter and her daughter's partner on Bruny Island.

Ms Curtis' current circumstances coincide with the end of Federal Government coronavirus Jobkeeper payments and Jobseeker supplement, a reported shortfall of 11,000 affordable homes in Tasmania and housing waiting lists reportedly at the highest levels seen in a decade.

Australian Bureau of Statistics data released on April 15 recorded an increase in both the unemployment and underemployment rate in Tasmania during the March 2021 quarter.

The unemployment increased to 5.9 per cent and underemployment increased to 9.4 per cent in Tasmania, both figures are higher than the national figures of 5.6 per cent and 7.9 per cent respectively.

Tasmania's unemployment and underemployment levels have worsened, while the national figures have improved during the quarter.

Ms Curtis described the difficult circumstance she now finds herself in as a "catch-22" situation, as a result of the low federal support payments and the current unemployment and rental housing crisis in Tasmania.

Ms Curtis worked previously as a teacher aide and then in disability support for around five years, before moving to Bruny Island around three years ago.

In recent years Ms Curtis provided services to guest accommodation businesses on Bruny Island, relying on the tourism industry for creating work and her van for transporting items.

Ms Curtis stressed how quickly people could fall into a similar situation.

"Anybody could fall into this situation," Ms Curtis said.

"I lost work because of COVID and then my van broke down."

Ms Curtis has been traveling to Hobart and 'couch surfing' with friends to line up for rental properties and for employment opportunities.

Ms Curtis said she is aiming to revive a past business in disability support based in Hobart.

However, Ms Curtis said she's found herself waiting in queues to view rental properties in Hobart with 20 to 50 other people.

Ms Curtis said her low fortnightly support payment has put rental accommodation in Hobart out of reach, with applications proving unsuccessful, despite the reality that she would be earning a significantly higher income once employment is re-established.

"I would have to move into a share house in Hobart," Ms Curtis said.

"I was previously doing high level disability care."

"I don't think there's a high job availability."

Clouds over election's secret deals

Tasmania is not having a free and fair state election, according to an associate professor of public policy at the University of Tasmania and a director of the Tasmanian Election Inquiry group, reported in the Tasmanian Inquirer on April 14.

Solicitor and Tasmanian Election Inquiry Director Roland Browne reportedly said State Government promises of transparency have so far proven hollow and the deals show Tasmania is not having a free and fair election where voters are fully informed, and where funding for parties is out in the open.

Kate Crowely, an associate professor of public and environmental policy at the University of Tasmania, reportedly said political parties should be transparent with the public about secret agreements with industry groups.

The comments came after Liberal and Labor Parties reportedly refused to reveal details of all secret agreements made with industry groups.

Independent Member for Nelson, Meg Webb MLC agreed with Ms Crowely and Mr Browne and commented to the Kingborough Chronicle on April 15 that the community deserves so much better.

Ms Webb said that it's completely unacceptable for political parties or candidates to put themselves forward for election with secret deals and policy commitments up their sleeves.

Ms Webb said the community deserves so much better.

"The 2018 state election remains under a cloud due to the overwhelming influence of direct donations and third-party campaigning from the poker machine industry," said Ms Webb.

"By sending the state to an unnecessarily early election without promised reform of electoral donation laws or reform of the poker machine industry, the Liberal Government has prioritised its political self-interest above an open, healthy democracy in this state.

"It is completely unacceptable for political parties or candidates to put themselves forward for election with secret deals and policy commitments up their sleeves," continued Ms Webb.

"Tasmanian voters deserve to know what policies and commitments each party and candidate have made so they can best consider who they want to support.

"It's such a shame to see Tasmanian political leaders so actively erode trust and confidence in our democracy by failing to deliver donation reform, keeping secrets from the Tasmanian people and making important decisions based solely on political self-interest.

"The Tasmanian community deserves so much better," Ms Webb concluded.

Australian Antarctic season concludes

The Australian Antarctic Division has welcomed the safe return of the fire-damaged chartered ship MPV Everest to Australia.

Director of the Australian Antarctic Division (AAD), Kim Ellis, said in a media statement on April 14 that the safe return of the voyage capped off a 'season unlike any other' where expeditioners spent up to 535 days living in Antarctica.

The ship, carrying 72 expeditioners and 37 crew, has completed a two-month, 12,400 kilometre voyage from Hobart to Davis and Mawson research stations in east Antarctica.

The vessel was diverted to Fremantle during its return voyage to Hobart due to damage sustained by a fire in the port engine room.

"We salute the courage and resilience of the expeditioners and crew on this difficult voyage and thank everyone for working together to bring them home," Mr Ellis said.

The voyage successfully resupplied Davis research station and changed over expeditioners who'd been there since 2019 after their season was extended due to transport issues caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Despite the pandemic changing our usual transport logistics, different ships, no internal flights, we managed to keep Australian Antarctic stations going strong and free of coronavirus."

MPV Everest then travelled west to Mawson research station, where thick sea ice prevented ship access and forced resupply operations to be carried out by helicopters.

Four days into the two-week transit from Mawson station across the Southern Ocean, a fire broke out in the port-side engine room and destroyed two small watercraft stored on deck.

Australian Antarctic Division General Manager of Operations, Charlton Clark, said the fire was contained and extinguished, and the ship continued its return journey to Australia using the starboard engine room.

"The Captain of MPV Everest decided to head for Fremantle as the nearest port, and the ship's owners Maritime Construction Services (MCS) deployed the nearest suitable large offshore tug GO Spica to accompany MPV Everest as a precaution," Mr Clark said.

"The team on MPV Everest were pleased to have the vessel accompany them the last few hundred nautical miles into Fremantle and are even more thrilled to be reunited with their families back on dry land."

The Australian Antarctic Division has stated the cause of the fire is being investigated by MCS and the Australian Transport Safety Bureau.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Kingborough Chronicle welcomes your opinion and encourages correspondents to have their say. Mail your letter to PO Box 306, Kingston 7051 or email editorial@kchronicle.com.au. Your full name, street address and telephone number should be included. Readers are encouraged to keep their letters brief and to the point. Letters of 250 (maximum 500) words is preferred. All letters are to be submitted Thursday noon before publication. It is the newspaper's position that if you wish to pass judgement on community issues and/or individuals that your name and suburb is published. Letters with pen names will not be considered.

Fabric of society priorities

Dear Editor,

I cannot stand by and say nothing regarding the new Kingston playground on the old Kingston High site.

In my strong opinion, and I know I am not alone on this, I believe it was utterly outrageous and obscene the amount spent on the park.

What is worse, for what is essentially a luxury item, if I am not mistaken it was done with borrowed money.

How can society possibly think this was OK, when we are reminded on what seems like a daily basis of Tasmania's housing crisis; with affordable homes allegedly at an extreme low availability and at an emergency situation for so many who require them.

Before anyone says to me that it is not the responsibility of a certain branch of our government and the playground is not associated with spending on the housing crisis, it is the 21st century and I believe we all know that things can be done to aim expenditure and resources where it is needed, rather than where it is wanted.

Quite simply, resources cannot be so mis-directed like this. I get that what I am saying is not the popular, shiny and fun point of view people want to hear but I believe that is the crux of the issue.

With priorities being so messed up, this new generation of 'we want it now' will seemingly find a way to justify borrowing millions on what is essentially a 'luxury want' rather than on the much more important 'fabric of society' spending that is urgently needed.

I believe something fundamental has to change, and hopefully the way things are done is radically different in the future.

Maybe even to the point, the system can be changed to be much more efficient and can derive more sensible outcomes which address more urgent problems, not millions spent on things like a playground.

I might not win a popularity contest for pointing this out, but someone has to have the intestinal fortitude to say something and point out this reality, even if it is not the message people want to hear.

Serious fabric of society issues absolutely must come first. Shiny, expensive, multi-million-dollar toys maybe after that.

Southern Outlet solution

Dear Editor,

A suggested plan to save Dynnyrne residents losing their homes.

A simple, cost effective solution would be to run witch-hats along the southbound lane from the Mt. Nelson turn-off to the traffic lights near Cascades Road each morning.

Similar to the system employed for many years from the Tasman Bridge to the city to improve traffic flow.

Council needs strength

Dear Editor,

Dean Winter will go into parliament on May 1. A strong candidate has to move up and take Dean Winter's mayoral seat at the next election.

The council can't go backwards, we need to have someone strong like Dean Winter.

Stroke awareness work recognised

Jake Vincent of Kingston has been named as a finalist in the 2021 national Stroke Foundation Stroke Awards.

Jake has been recognised in the 'Volunteer of the year award' category for his work with StrokeSafe Volunteer team in Tasmania since 2019, after experiencing a stroke at the age of 22.

The Volunteer of the Year Award recognises outstanding volunteers whose dedicated service has made a significant difference and contribution to prevent, treat and beat stroke.

Since becoming a StrokeSafe Speaker Jake has been engaged the promotion of Stroke Week and the Face Arms Speech Time (F.A.S.T.) signs of stroke.

Jake has delivered face to face and via online video conferencing talks despite his busy full-time employment in administration.

Speaking with the Kingborough Chronicle on April 15, Jake expressed gratitude to his partner, family and friends for their support.

"I can't thank them enough," Jake said.

"I experienced two strokes a few days apart caused by a narrowing of blood vessels in the right-hand-side of my brain for unknown reasons."

Jake said his partner, Sid, saved his life by recognising the signs of stroke.

"I was at the hospital within 20 minutes," Jake said.

"I was paralysed on the left side of my body for about eight hours."

"It took around six to 12 months to feel back to normal."

Jake said his partner also encouraged him to become a volunteer.

"I was pretty down and depressed," explained Jake.

"My partner Sid saw the opportunity for Stroke Foundation volunteers and encouraged me to go for it."

"Physically, people can understand what it must be like to lose strength or become paralysed in different parts of your body, but mentally it's a whole other battle."

"So, after months of moaning about 'why me' and 'you don't know what it's like', I decided to share my experience to help the community understand the effects of stroke a little bit better."

"I conduct presentations about stroke prevention and recognition to various community groups," said Jake.

"I do this by telling stories about my experience as well as other stroke survivors I have had the pleasure of meeting."

"I really like telling my story to people, particularly in my age demographic of ages 16 to 30."

"I also provide support to any stroke survivor or family member that reaches out."

"I've lived in Kingston all my life."

"I take meds to thin my blood and to prevent stroke."

"I play a lot of sport, cricket and basketball, and just keep living."

Winners of the 2021 national Stroke Foundation Stroke Awards will be announced on May 5.

Rent outstripping income

Ms Curtis highlighted the anxiety and depression caused as a result of continually lining up with many others for rental accommodation only to have her application rejected.

Ms Curtis also commented that other friends were facing similar situations due to rent increases outstripping their incomes, with some forced to look for second jobs to just earn an income above the weekly rental cost.

"The rent is now 100 per cent of their income," said Ms Curtis.

"We only survive because we help each other."

There are various proposals to the housing crisis on the table from political parties seeking to form government after the state election on May 1.

On April 16, Tasmanian Labor committed to spending $12.6 million over four years for case workers to help secure housing for homeless Tasmanians and those at risk of homelessness and $39.6 million over four years to build and fund additional supported and emergency accommodation, should they be elected to government on May 1.

Meanwhile the Tasmanian Greens' have committed to a 'housing led recovery' from COVID-19 in Tasmania, including invest in 8357 additional social and affordable homes by 2030 to meet the 11,000 homes deficit, should they form government on May 1.

"This will include an early investment in 4000 public housing dwellings to meet current housing waiting list demands, and 2000 rent-to-buy affordable homes for low to middle income earners," states the Greens' policy document.

"We can solve the housing crisis and invest in growing the construction workforce, with skills and training in green building design and construction."

"We will adopt a Housing First approach to homelessness, providing secure tenancy and wrap-around supports to homeless Tasmanians and changing lives for the long term."

The Housing First model, successful in Finland, involves providing secure tenancy, instead of crisis accommodation, to those experiencing homelessness.

Further election coverage on pages 14 and 15.

COMMENT COLUMN

with Kingborough Councillor
David Grace

I've been an elected Councillor since 2000 and in that time served as Deputy Mayor.

My term will end in October 2022 and I will be standing down.

I'll continue to serve with the same enthusiasm and drive for the residents as I have always done.

First and foremost, I believe there should be more open and transparent community consultation and reporting as promised by the current Mayor and Deputy Mayor.

I am a strong advocate for better communication between the council and its community and believe that free regular publications outside of its media releases informing the community of proposed and ongoing works programs and expansions is vital and I know a lot of residents are unable to access social media.

Council has to do more to keep its residents informed and regularly updated.

I struggle to understand why council continues to increase rates when the municipality is constantly and consistently growing and that revenue should outweigh the continual rate increases.

I've been and continue to be a strong advocate for the Bruny Island residents and I've worked tirelessly in consultation with the Bruny Island District School and this will not cease.

The outlying rural areas of the municipality should be benefitting from more walkways/cycleways, reserves and playgrounds and there is currently a significant lack of equality with central Kingston.

There are a number of rural roads which historically have served their purpose and now desperately need upgrading, with at least widening and sealing to protect the health and safety of the residents, as well as to lengthen the life of the roads.

The population of our rural areas has increased enormously over the past 20 years and the infrastructure has to be improved.

I have expressed concern about the traffic situation with both Margate and Snug Primary Schools being on the Channel Highway and having spoken with the current elected member for Franklin.

It appears that potentially overpasses could be established for both schools.

The Margate to Snug walkway/cycleway was an initiative of mine many years ago and with Government assistance has been a huge success with constant daily usage.

A feasibility study is currently underway by council to extend the walkway/cycleway from Snug to Coningham.

Many residents at Margate continue to express their frustration to me about the "hole in the ground" and I am hopeful of an announcement in the next few months.

It has long been an ambition of mine to establish the Brookfield walkway/cycleway starting from the North West Bay River Bridge and finishing at the Kingborough municipality/Hobart City Council boundary.

The old smokehouse still exists at Brookfield and nearby are the remains of the original pump station and weir which once provided drinking water to Margate and Snug.

There was a swinging bridge which could be rebuilt.

I consider this to be a major project as there is a lot of history in this catchment area, the potential is enormous and it would be a tourist drawcard attracting revenue into the area.

The walkway/cycleway could be done in stages and accessed at different locations including the Sandfly Reserve as well as being accessible from both Brookfield and the Longley Reserve.

I am extremely grateful and appreciative of the support I have had from residents over the years.

Local Census Field Officers needed

Kingborough residents looking for new job opportunities may benefit from the upcoming census, which is set to employ over 500 Tasmanians.

The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) is currently recruiting 20,000 Census Field Officers across the country to help deliver the 2021 Census.

Field Officers assist the ABS at a local level by delivering Census instructions and forms and by visiting households that have not yet responded.

The ABS want to recruit locally to ensure Field Officers are familiar with the local area, giving Kingborough locals an edge.

"Field Officers play a vital role as they promote Census participation and answer peoples' questions," said Andrew Henderson, Census Executive Director and National Spokesperson.

"Helping members of the public who need special support to complete the Census is a key role for our Field Officers.

"We want to recruit motivated people who are keen to tell their community's story through the successful collection of Census data."

Previous experience isn't a requirement and training will be provided prior to commencing the job.

Speaking a language other than English will also be an advantage for applicants.

The roles are short-term and available in all cities, towns and regional areas nationwide.

The flexible working hours are variable and will include weekdays, weekends and evenings.

Applicants are encouraged to view the applicant information kit and apply early as jobs are expected to fill quickly.

It takes approximately 15 minutes to apply at www.censusjobs.adecco.com.au

The 2021 Census is on Tuesday, August 10 and will be Australia's 18th Census.

Information about the roles is available at www.census.abs.gov.au

Invention convention

Four Kingborough students are among 20 Tasmanian secondary students who unleashed their ideas and creativity at the Questacon Invention Convention between April 13 and 15.

A student from Taroona High School, two students from Southern Christian College and a Huonville High School student from Kingston who attended the free, three-day program for young people aged 14 to 18, where students create prototypes to address real-world problems and develop the skills to bring their ideas to life.

The Invention Convention provided an opportunity to explore all aspects of innovation including enterprise skills needed for the future, like communication, problem solving, creative thinking and teamwork.

Participants gained new practical STEM skills, as they explored hands-on prototype projects including simple electronics, experiments with sensors, programming robots, using computer-aided design software and manual tools.

Participants were also mentored by professional innovators from the local community.

Invention Convention Coordinator Leisha Duncan said that passions for technology, building, ideas and science are all part of the experience.

"The young people joining us have a range of interests in innovation; whether they are always keeping up with the latest tech, love building things and coming up with new ideas, or have a passion for science or engineering at school," said Ms Duncan.

"Students extend their creativity through user-design activities, learn new skills and share ideas with each other.

"They are using these new skills to design and build simple prototypes which solve real challenges for real people."

At the end of the convention, participants presented their ideas and will share their journey with friends, family, mentors, and members of the Hobart innovation community.

Solar energy proposal for state schools

A Department of Education policy that disincentivises state schools to save energy is set to be scrapped if a Labor Government is elected on May 1.

Tasmanian Labor announced on April 5 that it would create a $5 million Solar Schools Fund to encourage state schools to install solar panels, with schools to retain any savings in reduced power costs, rather than having those funds returned to consolidated revenue, and the next year's budget reduced by the amount saved.

Labor leader, Rebecca White said the savings from solar installation would be significant.

"We estimate that by installing solar panels, each school could save around $22,000 a year from their power bill," said Ms White.

"Under Labor's policy this is a significant saving that can be poured back into increasing the learning outcomes of students at each participating school."

Ms White claimed the Solar Schools Fund programme would also create around 45 jobs.

State election candidate for Franklin and Tasmanian Young Australian of the Year 2021 Toby Thorpe assisted in efforts to install solar panels at Huonville High as a student at the school.

In 2020 the Kingborough Chronicle reported on the efforts of students at Tarremah Steiner School in Huntingfield.

The students took action to install 303 solar panels in an effort to become energy-neutral.

The panels provide 83 per cent of the school's power.

Greyhound park consultation opens

Kingborough Council is inviting public submissions on a dedicated greyhound exercise area at its Kingston View Drive Dog Park.

The proposed exercise area is approximately 51 metres long by 49 metres wide.

Acting Kingborough Mayor, Jo Westwood said the establishment of a specific area for greyhounds would give their owners the freedom of exercising their dogs off-lead.

"In Tasmania greyhounds are restricted to exercising on a lead in a public space as part of the Tasmanian Government's Dog Control Act 2000," Cr Westwood said.

"Greyhounds can only be exercised off-lead in areas that have been specifically declared by councils."

Council proposes fencing of the area, with a maintenance gate and barriers within the space to break line of sight and restrict speed.

"Council is calling for public submissions on the new area from April 21 to Friday, May 14," Cr Westwood said.

Moonah resident, Julia Smith, said she was prepared to travel to Kingston to use the greyhound-only area.

"I hope other southern councils take note, as it would be great to have more places where greyhounds can run free like other dogs.

Kingborough resident Fiona Masters said whilst she doesn't agree with greyhound-only parks, as they potentially perpetuate a misconception of greyhounds being dangerous, she feels it is the best course of action given legislative restrictions.

"In the absence of legislation that allows greyhounds off-lead, this is the next best thing and I congratulate the Kingborough Council for doing this," Ms Masters said.

Information concerning the proposed exercise area can be found on council's website www.kingborough.tas.gov.au or by visiting the Civic Centre at 15 Channel Hwy, Kingston.

Anyone wishing to make a submission can do so by emailing kc@kingborough.tas.gov.au or writing to Kingborough Council, Civic Centre, 15 Channel Hwy, Kingston, 7050.

Local government unsafe for women

Both the Australian Local Government Association (ALGA) and the Local Government Association of Tasmania (LGAT) have got behind a prominent group of Tasmanian local government members who say online abuse and attacks are preventing women from putting their hand up to serve on local councils.

Amid the horrific claims coming out about bullying and abuse of women in Federal Parliament, the high-profile group issued a joint statement last week raising concerns about the safety of the workplace and respect for women. The statement was signed by Kingborough Deputy Mayor Jo Westwood, Kingborough councillors Amanda Midgley and Paula Wriedt, Hobart Lord Mayor Anna Reynolds, Deputy Lord Mayor Helen Burnet, Glenorchy Mayor Kristie Johnston, Clarence Deputy Mayor Heather Chong, Clarence Aldermen Beth Warren and Tony Mulder, Hobart councillors Jax Ewin, Bill Harvey, and Zelinda Sherlock and Launceston Councillor Andrea Dawkins.

The statement was posted on Mayor Reynolds' Facebook page and said that a LGAT survey of elected members in 2019 found 60 per cent had been bullied and harassed online, including by other elected members.

The survey has been presented to the Local Government Minister and the group is concerned that nothing has been done to address the issue.

"No-one enters politics if they have thin skin," the joint statement said.

"You expect - indeed, welcome - different perspectives and robust debate focused on the issues.

"However, what we see every week in Tasmanian local politics, especially on social media, is debate that crosses the line.

"It stops being about policy or even party politics and becomes deeply personal.

"It's important for elected representatives to lead by example and to create a space that fosters respectful debate.

"Unfortunately, that's not what we are seeing in local government in Tasmania, and in our experience women representatives are the target of more online abuse and attacks than their male colleagues.

"We want politics to include more diverse representation and for people to feel that they can safely share their thoughts and opinions without being subject to bullying or harassment.

"That will never happen if women elected members are not treated with respect and are attacked for attributes relating to who they are (for example their gender, appearance, etc) rather than the substance of their policy."

The group wants to see LGAT and the State Government work together on actions to create safer and more respectful workplaces, which could include training and counselling for all elected members.

Chair Mayor Christina Holmdahl said that the LGAT is supportive of a collaborative approach between State Government and the local government sector to ensure women in local government feel safe at work and in representing their communities.

"While many of Tasmania's councils should be proud of their culture and support for their women leaders, the recently released Joint Statement highlights there is a need to more closely examine this issue and to strive for improvements.

"LGAT will be raising this matter for formal discussion with all members at the next LGAT General Meeting in May.

"It is essential that we continue to have women representing local communities to ensure our democracy is truly representative.

"The conversation that is happening nationally is just as important locally and women's voices must be heard and acted on," concluded Mayor Holmdahl.

Local Government Association of Tasmania (LGAT) and the Australian Local Government Association are supporting a prominent group of Tasmanian local government members who say online abuse and attacks are preventing women from putting their hand up to serve on local councils. LGAT president, Mayor Christina Holmdahl, said LGAT will be raising the matter for formal discussion with all members at the next LGAT General Meeting in May. (PS)

Local reader wins in national media survey

Kingborough Chronicle reader Celine Campbell is one of 10 people who has won an iPad in a recent national survey on local news.

Ms Campbell won a randomly selected draw as part of the survey, which received one of the biggest responses of all media surveys in Australia.

The survey, conducted late last year, was part of the largest-ever Australian study on how regional news can thrive in the digital era.

Deakin University, RMIT University and Country Press Australia, the peak regional media organisation, of which this newspaper is a member, are leading the study.

The three-year project has almost $250,000 backing from the Australian Research Council, one of the Federal Government's main competitive research funding agencies.

More than 4000 people responded with their ideas and suggestions to improve newspaper coverage, with many passionate about their support for the future of both print and digital local news.

National preliminary findings include: There is continued strong demand and passion for the printed product in rural and regional Australia.

Audiences indicate a preference for accessing news from their local masthead in print, and they would prefer to read a digital news site that has the look and layout of a printed newspaper.

Audiences also overwhelmingly view a printed copy of their newspaper as an essential service for their community.

Audiences believe they should be invited to have a say about government policies and decisions affecting the future of local newspapers.

In general, audiences indicated they are five times as likely to go directly to a local news website for their local news than Google or Facebook, and almost 10 times as likely to go to the local newspaper website over a local council website for their local news and information.

Policies that affect the future of local newspapers would influence the way audiences vote at the next federal election.

Audiences believe local newspapers should be collaboratively funded by a range of relevant stakeholders to ensure their future.

Audiences were not in favour of their newspaper subscriptions being made tax deductible.

Audiences overwhelmingly indicated any additional funding for local news should be directed to employing more local journalists to report news, over increasing digital connectivity and digital innovation products.

Project partner and Country Press Australia Executive Director, Bruce Morgan, recently said the local-news innovation project was as much about regional communities as it was about local media businesses.

"Local media outside metropolitan Australia is very much the journal of record for the towns and regions it represents," Mr Morgan said.

"It is not exaggerating to say that, should we lose local media representation, it will impact not just on the fabric of those communities, but the very principles of democracy.

"That is, the ability to record, champion, challenge and hold accountable.

"That is why this highly-credible, well-funded research is vital to those communities and their future."

KINGBOROUGH COOK

With Mother's Day approaching, perhaps cut these out and leave them on the kitchen bench. Kirsten said both these recipes allow you to pre-prepare.

Stuffed chicken breast wrapped in pancetta

Ingredients:

- 4 chicken breasts, skinless and boneless
- 4 tbsp cranberry sauce
- 300g gorgonzola cheese
- 24 slices of pancetta
- Tasmanian olive oil
- Salt
- Freshly ground black pepper

Green bean salad:

- 4 handfuls green beans
- ½ lemon, juice only
- 3-4 tbsp olive oil

Note: You may like to boil some pink eyes to serve with this meal as well.

Method:

1. Preheat the oven to 200°.
2. Place each chicken breast between two pieces of plastic film and using a meat mallet, bash out the pieces until about 0.5cm thick. Remove the plastic film.
3. Spread one tablespoon of cranberry sauce over each chicken breast. Place a piece of gorgonzola in the middle of each chicken breast, season and roll up the chicken to enclose the cheese.
4. Place six slices of pancetta, side by side, on a chopping board. Place one chicken breast on the pancetta slices and tightly wrap pancetta around the chicken. Repeat with the remaining chicken and pancetta slices.
5. Place the chicken breasts on a baking tray, drizzle with a little olive oil and cook in the oven for about 20-25 minutes until the cheese is melted.

6. Meanwhile, blanch the green beans for a few minutes in boiling water and then refresh in iced water.
7. Toss the beans with the lemon juice, olive oil, salt and freshly ground black pepper.
8. Divide the bean salad between four plates.
9. Top with the cooked chicken and serve.

Croque monsieur

Ingredients:

- 4 slices thick wholemeal bread
- 2 tsp Dijon mustard
- 80g grated gruyere cheese
- 2 thick slices ham
- 30g unsalted butter

Method:

1. Preheat the oven to 180C.
2. Spread half a teaspoon of mustard over each slice of bread. Top two of the slices with half of the grated cheese followed by a slice of ham each, and then finish with the remaining cheese on top. Sandwich together with the other two slices of bread.
3. Heat the butter in a large frying pan until foaming, then add the sandwiches and fry for 1-2 minutes on each side, or until golden-brown.
4. Transfer the sandwiches to a baking tray and sprinkle some more grated cheese on top and place into the oven for 4-5 minutes, or until the cheese has melted.
5. Place the sandwiches on a serving plate, slice each sandwich in half and serve immediately.

Mental health decline in young people

The Mental Health Council of Tasmania (MHCT) released a report on April 14 detailing the experience of Tasmania's young people during the COVID-19 pandemic.

MHCT engaged with community members and mental health services providers, including a series of consultations with over 370 young people across the state, regarding barriers to maintaining mental wellbeing.

In regional and remote communities in particular, young people cited a lack of local services as a major barrier to achieving and maintaining good mental wellbeing.

The impacts of COVID have compounded and highlighted many ongoing concerns held by young people, leading to reduced hope for their future, with many feeling that the pandemic has limited the opportunities they would have otherwise looked forward to.

MHCT Chief Executive Officer, Connie Digolis, said

"with many young Tasmanians coming to a crucial crossroad in their lives, they're looking for assurances and certainty about what lies ahead.

"Because of the pandemic though, they're faced with uncertainty, which is impacting on their mental wellbeing.

"While we may not be able to remove the uncertainty entirely, we can ensure that our young people are supported through this challenging period."

Mental health service providers have seen an increasing number of young people attempting to access support.

Service providers also noted that those that are reaching out are presenting with poorer levels of mental health and increasingly complex issues.

The MHCT found the decline in youth mental health and increased complexity has increased pressure on the mental health sector, meaning young people are waiting longer to access the support they need.

The MHCT report highlights a series of nine opportunities for change:

- Develop system-wide interim solutions to ease service capacity constraints
- Implement measures to better integrate the youth mental health system
- Develop a central access point service model
- Provide youth peer work in mental health care
- Develop mental health literacy and health promotion campaigns
- Promote and expand capacity of early intervention supports
- Improve service accessibility
- Provide safe identity-based social groups and support services
- Focus on workforce development

Ms Digolis acknowledged that while there is promising work underway, there is still a lot that needs to be done.

"Everyone that we talk to across communities, government and the mental health sector, recognises the importance of providing our young people with the support and guidance they need to maintain their mental wellbeing.

"We must now work together to build the strength and hope of our young Tasmanians, ensuring no matter where they live, they have the support and opportunities they need to thrive."

The full report, titled 'COVID-19: A mental health response for young Tasmanians' is available from the MHCT website at <https://mhct.org/>

Winter cycle-ready

Kingborough cyclists might be daunted by the increasingly cool, wet and windy weather as winter approaches, but Bicycle Network Tasmania (BNT) has revealed some tips for cyclists.

"It's easy to ride your bicycle in Tasmania's cooler months, you just need the right gear to stay warm, dry and be seen," said BNT spokesperson Alison Hetherington.

"One of the first things to do is to make sure you have working lights for your bike.

"It's Tasmanian law that when visibility is poor you must have a white light on the front of your bike and red light on the back visible for up to 200 metres, either flashing or steady.

"You also need a red reflector on the back visible up to 50 metres when light shines on it.

"If you don't, police can fine you $129 for each offence.

"It's easy these days to get high visibility lights that are easy to attach and charge.

"A good rule of thumb is that if the street lights are on, then so should your bike lights," Ms Hetherington advised.

"The next task is to stay warm and dry.

"The good thing about riding is that if it's cold it doesn't take long to warm up, but gloves, socks and ear protectors go a long way to keeping the worst of the chill away.

"Staying dry is not so difficult either.

"Make sure the raincoat you use has a long back to protect against spray from the road and fits firmly around the neck and wrists so rain can't trickle inside.

"Overpants are another good idea, especially if you don't want to change what you intend to wear at your destination.

"Like raincoats, these can make you hotter quickly so think about what you wear underneath.

"Reflective piping or material on raincoats and pants also helps you be seen in the dark, as does reflectors on wheel spokes or tyres with reflective walls.

"You can get helmet covers to ensure your head doesn't get wet and protectors for shoes, or just wear lightweight walking or running shoes that have Gore-Tex waterproofing.

For further information visit <https://www.bicyclenet.work.com.au>

Bicycle Network Tasmania's Alison Hetherington notes a working white light is required on the front of bicycles and red light on the back, visible for up to 200 metres. A red reflector visible up to 50 metres is required on the back of bicycles. (PS)

Grande old Lady Lumeah

Built in 1888, Lumeah means 'I rest here', and is a renowned and infamous part of the history of Bruny Island and Adventure Bay.

Originally the managers residence for the Gray Brothers Mill at Quiet Corner, the beautiful timber features throughout the property illustrate the craftsmanship of a bygone era and symbolise the depth of the history that lies within.

After its time as the managers residence, Lumeah became the Adventure Bay Post Office, then a boarding house and campgrounds, a youth hostel in the late 1970's before reverting to self-contained accommodation and a home.

This property is significant to the community and is opening its doors to a lucky new owner.

This grand home is simply charming.

High ceilings, timber features, expansive hallways, ornate fireplaces and a claw foot bath will take you back in time and captivate your senses.

The sprawling home offers a myriad of options with its flexible floorplan.

Currently a residence and an Airbnb sleeping 11, it has been a successful and popular business to date, an option available to the astute purchaser.

This property lends itself to house two families, as accommodation or as an impressive manor for one lucky family.

Set on over 2000 square metres of luscious grounds, outside is an oasis of colour containing stunning gardens, a fernery, places to picnic and a spa to relax.

Stroll to popular Adventure Bay Beach, a mere minute away and walk along the golden sand to the local shop.

Bruny Island is an amazing part of Tasmania, showcasing local produce, distilleries, seafood, nature and wildlife.

Those who have been searching for somewhere special, anywhere in the world, now have an opportunity to discover Lumeah and fulfill their island dream.

Liberal Party candidates for Franklin

The Liberal Party currently hold two out of five Lower House seats representing the electoral Division of Franklin in Tasmania's Parliament.

The Liberal Party are running five candidates in the Franklin on May 1.

The Kingborough Chronicle invited a comment from each candidate on the key issues they are standing for.

Jacquie Petrusma MP

"My vision is for Franklin to be the best electorate in which to work, live and raise a family, so I am fighting for initiatives that will keep us safe and secure from COVID-19 and secure Tasmania's future.

"This includes strengthening and growing jobs and our economy; supporting families and young people, essential services, sport, health, infrastructure, education, cost of living, family and sexual violence, the environment, seniors, people with disability and our most vulnerable."

Dean Young

"I am a champion for small business growth and development across Tasmania and have been a small business operator for almost 20 years.

"I am passionate about improving education and greater opportunities for young Tasmanians in the work place as part of a diverse and resilient economy."

Bec Enders

"I am passionate and committed to the people of Franklin and have been proud to serve the community as Mayor of the Huon Valley.

"I am running for the Liberal team because I want to help improve essential services, such as health services, and drive policy in the areas of aboriginal affairs, anti-social behaviour, skills and training, youth mental health and suicide, as well as helping those most disadvantaged in our community."

Nic Street MP

"As a lifelong resident of Kingborough, I want to make sure that people in our local area have every opportunity to live here, work here and raise a family here.

"I'll continue to work for the issues that impact our community, including better access to health services in Kingborough and improving infrastructure and traffic, as part of our plan to secure Tasmania's future."

James Walker

"From decades of work as an allied health professional, I know first-hand that primary and community health services improve accessibility and take pressure off hospitals.

"If elected, as part of the Liberal team, I will continue to champion more initiatives like our $30 million commitment to build stage two of the Kingston Health Centre."

Liberal Party candidates running for the Division of Franklin on May 1 include Nic Street MP, Jacquie Petrusma MP, James Walker, Bec Enders and Dean Young. (PS)

Labor Party candidates for Franklin

Labor currently hold two out of five Lower House seats representing the electoral Division of Franklin in Tasmania's Parliament.

The Labor Party are running six candidates in Franklin on May 1.

The Kingborough Chronicle invited a comment from each candidate on the issues they were standing for.

Alison Standen MP

"I'm Alison Standen, your Labor Member for Franklin. I'm asking for your number one vote so I can continue to be a voice for our community on issues such as affordable housing and climate change."

"Just like you, I care for our region, and want it to be the best it can be for all of us."

David O'Byrne MP

"As your local Labor member, I have been fighting for this community and I understand the issues that matter to the people of Franklin."

"We will invest in our industries, invest in our public services and build a better Tasmania."

"A vote for me is a vote for keeping public assets in public hands, for increased investment in health services, action on traffic congestion and good secure jobs for Tasmanians."

Dean Winter

"Kingborough has been the fastest growing area in Tasmania for years, but we don't see enough support for infrastructure or services."

"While 'marginal' electorates see governments spend big, Liberal Governments always seem to forget us."

"I'm running because I want to see our local area finally get our fair share."

Toby Thorpe

"This election needs a new vision and energy to best prepare Tasmania for the future, and as Tasmania's Young Australian of the Year, I believe I can contribute to this positively."

Amy Brumby

"I am 45 and mother to a 15-year-old daughter. My key issues are: stopping the privatisation of TAFE and selling Tasmanian assets; mental health, especially youth mental health; better support for victims of family violence; addressing the increasing issue of homelessness."

Fabiano Cangelosi

"Ensuring that we have the education and training systems and infrastructure for Tasmania's next 30 years, supported by access to housing and a functioning health system."

ANZAC DAY

Sunday, April 25, 2021

KINGSTON BEACH ANZAC DAY DAWN SERVICE 6.30am Osborne Esplanade

After having had to be cancelled last year because of COVID-19, an ANZAC Day Dawn Service will again be held at Osborne Esplanade Kingston Beach. Unfortunately because of COVID restrictions the March that follows the Dawn Service will be restricted to Service and ex-Service people only. This will not necessitate closing roads as has been necessary in the past.

The venue includes the lawn and the adjacent beach area so COVID spacing rules should not be an inconvenience. The Dawn Service and Wreath Laying will be held usual. For those not able to attend, we encourage people to stand at the foot of their driveways with a candle to remember the fallen, as many did last year. We also encourage members of the public to support our principal fundraising effort by purchasing ANZAC tokens from our sellers at local shopping centres closer to ANZAC Day. The money we collect only goes to supporting veterans and their families and our other charitable purposes. There are categories of Membership of the RSL Sub Branch for all serving and ex-serving members of the Australian and Allied Defences Forces, for members of the Police and Emergency Services and for people who have or have had relatives in defence forces. New members welcome. If people wish to wear medals that had been awarded to relatives, they should wear them on their right breast. Members of the public who wish to lay a wreath, please contact the Secretary on 62295817 or kbrslsubbranch@bigpond.com. The COVID distancing rules will be observed at the Service. "They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old, age shall not weary them nor the years condemn; at the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them."

"Hearing Australia's 'Share your Secret' campaign is a timely reminder for people to remember that they are not alone in their hearing journey," said Karen Hirschausen, Principal Audiologist at Hearing Australia. (PS)

Hearing Australia share secrets

Findings from Hearing Australia's 'Share your Secret' survey of Australians over the age of 50 released on March 3 for World Hearing Day, show that almost half (42%) of respondents have never discussed hearing loss with family and friends.

Nearly all (95%) respondents believe that people should talk more openly about hearing loss, but almost a half (42%) agree that stigma still exists.

The survey found over a third of the respondents said better hearing would improve their friendships and social life and acknowledged that they (48%) would miss the sound of loved ones' voices if they experienced hearing loss.

Despite hearing loss potentially hindering Australian's ability to live life to the fullest, people are not taking action.

One in four (25%) older Australians don't recall ever having received a hearing test, and more than one in five (22%) haven't taken a hearing test in over five years.

This may be a result of outdated views on hearing aid technology.

Despite hearing aids now being modern, small and discreet, nearly all respondents (87%) said that they would be too embarrassed to wear a hearing aid, as they are "ugly and unfashionable" (26%).

These misconceptions could be preventing older Australians from celebrating the joy of sound.

"Hearing Australia's 'Share your Secret' campaign is a timely reminder for people to remember that they are not alone in their hearing journey," said Karen Hirschausen, Principal Audiologist at Hearing Australia.

"There are many modern solutions available that, if needed, can offer discreet support without stopping you from living life to the full.

"In fact, many of our clients believe that taking control of their hearing loss could be the secret to their success.

"My message to those who are struggling with hearing loss is don't hesitate, just get a test," said Les, Hearing Australia client.

"Being able to engage in conversation with people, family and friends, is so much more important.

"Especially when hearing aids these days are so skinny, most people don't even notice that I'm wearing them."

The 'Share Your Secret' consumer survey was conducted by Pureprofile on behalf of Hearing Australia.

The total sample size was 2000 adults aged 50 years and over in Australia.

Fieldwork was undertaken between February 17 to February 23 via an online survey.

Early correction of hearing loss keeps dementia at bay

Audiologist of 20 years, Mr Nick Modrovich is no stranger to hearing aid myths.

"Clients say they are worried hearing aids would make them look old," explains Nick Modrovich from Ability Hearing.

"The irony is that people notice you not hearing them more than actually wearing hearing aids.

"Positive ageing are things we can do to maintain a positive attitude as we get older.

"From a hearing standpoint, we can do a lot to avoid social isolation brought on by gradual hearing loss.

"Having your hearing checked once you turn 65 is a good start."

Checking for earwax for suction by an Audiologist regularly is also a good idea.

A recent Johns Hopkins study found that hearing loss increases the risk of dementia significantly.

Dr Frank Lin, who headed the study, found hearing loss contributed to a faster rate of atrophy or cell death in our brains.

Correcting hearing loss can help us stay engaged in social involvement with our family, peers and community and delay cognitive decline.

New Healthable Hearing Aids use artificial intelligence to deliver clear sounds, and other smart health and wellness benefits.

The device tracks step and activity levels, motivating you to keep moving as you age.

It also measures social engagement to reduce mental decline.

The ear is the body's sweet spot for reliable health monitoring.

The Healthable technology is so sensitive, it can detect falls and send alerts, giving you and your loved ones peace of mind while you maintain your independence.

Ability Hearing and Balance is having an Open Day of the Starkey Healthable Hearing Aids during the first week of May.

Call 1300 327 776 to claim your spot and Ability Hearing and Balance will demo this new technology for you, obligation free.

SUMMERLEAS EAGLES MAKES HISTORY

Three of the four Summerleas Eagles teams defeated their opponents to win the Grand Finals of the HCCA competition. The Eagles are the first club to claim three shields in one season. (PS)

The Summerleas Eagles Cricket Club (SECC) has become the first club in the Huon and Channel Cricket Association (HCCA) to win three premierships in one season.

Four of the club's teams made the grand finals this year, which is also a first for the association.

For a club that started nine years ago, this is an extraordinary achievement.

The club has also managed to win nine premierships since its inception.

SECC is a community cricket club that encourages multiculturalism and social integration.

Based out of Lightwood Park 2 in the Kingborough Sports Precinct, the club has been instrumental in providing a social platform for new Tasmanians.

The club's member base is truly diverse, in addition to having members from the Kingborough area, it has almost become the preferred club for expatriates and new migrants to the Kingborough and Greater Hobart region. Cricket gained its popularity globally during the expansion of the British empire, hence it is no surprise that playing members of the club include migrants and international students from mainly Commonwealth countries such as India, Bangladesh, Nepal, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, South Africa, Kenya and UK origins who now reside in Tasmania.

Diversity and equal opportunity are deeply engrained in the club's core culture and is demonstrated throughout its operations.

The club founders have worked hard to materialise their vision of creating a welcoming and harmonious community group where the love of sport crosses the boundaries of culture, religion, age and background.

Club President, Mandeep Wadhwa, was thankful to all and said, "it's taken a remarkable amount of planning, improvisation and sacrifice from every member of our club, from players to their families, to sponsors, to coaches, to committee members, to volunteers, to the council, to get to this point, which in itself is a monumental achievement."

Head Coach and Club Captain, Prajit Parameswar, credited this success to disciplined performance, irreplaceable belief, amazing teamwork and most of all, the want of every player to get better and play their best cricket.

Prajit also thanked the association and its chair Fahim A

Chowdhury for providing the platform that enables social cricket clubs like the SECC to play the beautiful game of cricket.

"Cricket is not just a great game, it helps build character, provides opportunities to make friends and importantly unites people," concluded Prajit Parameswar.

SECURING TASMANIA'S FUTURE

In the Tasmanian Netball League the Kingston Blues played the Arrows Netball Club on Friday evening, April 16 at the Kingborough Sports Centre. Anita Eberstein (pictured) from the 19s and under team had a good win with the final score being Blues 43 to Arrows 23. The Opens had another hard game with the score being Blues 12 to Arrows 33 at half time. The final score was 37-62. (PS Carolyn Whitehouse)

Holy grail for team Hinkley

Tuesday, April 13 saw the start of the Tuesday afternoon Fours Winter Competition in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre at the Kingborough Bowls and Community Club, with a full house of 16 teams competing.

The 64 participants represented bowlers from various southern clubs including Claremont, North Hobart, Rosny, Bruny Island, Taroon, Cygnet, Sandy Bay and Kingborough.

All bowlers enjoyed the extremely competitive but friendly start to the off-season competition, with the event conducted in the true spirit of lawn bowls.

One of the many highlights on the day was the holy grail of lawn bowls, the maximum score in an end of eight by team Hinkley, with Geoff Dannock, David Lovett, Steve Graff and skip Keith Hinkley.

They only won on their rink by nine shots overall at the end of the game and were certainly lucky to have scored the eight on one end.

Big winners in their games on the day were the Rosny based team Newbold with Peter Brooks, Geoff Roberts, Graham Newbold and skip Neville Bryan who defeated Team Hemmings 33-11.

Team Kosi with Fred Kosi, Cathy Riley, John Oates and skip, Pat Lee defeated McIlroy 28-10 and team Cawthorn with Michael Steele, Judy Traill, Stuart Traill and skip, Conrad Westhead defeated team Hickey 29-12.

The other results on the day were Schooling defeated Fenton 20-18, Rosevear defeated Monks 21-15, Hinkley defeated Bridge 24-15, Chaffey defeated Mus 15-14 and Morgan defeated Harra's Harem 18-11.

The top six on the competition ladder after week one consists of first round winners; Newbold on top with net shots up of 22, followed by Kosi 18, Cawthorn 17, Hinkley 9, Maree Morgan 7 and Rosevear 6.

The first round of the Wednesday evening Fours Competition also saw all eight rinks in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre utilised with 16 teams (64 bowlers in all) competing in this prestigious event.

This competition saw many of the regular teams as well as many new ones from various clubs around the southern region of the state.

The South Africans had the standout result of the night, defeating the Claremont Monties 26-4.

The father and sons team of Iain, Nathen and Callum Dinning were joined by Tony Rowe, to win 14 of the 18 ends played.

Better Performance, as they have done over past years, lived up to their name defeating the Cherry Pickers 26-16.

The Scrubbers cleaned up the Sandy Bay Boomers 17-11.

The match up that should have been the game of the night became a one side affair when Michael Glancy's Pump Kin Patch defeated Will Coad's Willies Wonkers 20-9.

The Dynamics accounted for the strong Allen Sculthorpe team winning 16-12.

The Dynamics have been a very dominate team in this competition over the years and in fact, many say that Club President Craig Griggs stacks the team with top bowlers.

Craig has been quoted as saying (tongue in cheek), "of course the team is stacked, I am in it!"

The Geeveston Woodcutters defeated the Seagulls 18-12.

The Royal Hobart Dodgers also had a 18-12 win against team Titan Sylvia.

The Leftovers had a convincing 23-10 win against the Oaktree Raiders.

The Raiders kept their same name after winning only one game last season and are determined to prove this year that in fact they are raiders.

The Raiders are looking forward to turning this week's loss around next game.

After the first round the South Africans are on top of the ladder on 22 shots up, the Leftovers second on 13 shots up and Pump Kin Patch third on 11 shots up.

The Kingborough Bowls and Community Club and members are looking forward to the Annual Club Presentation Night dinner which will be held at the Club Room at Margate on Saturday, May 15.

Club Championship winners awards as well as many other achievement awards will be presented to members on the night.

The Club AGM will be held at the Club Rooms on Sunday, May 25.
