Supporting our community

Acting Mayor of Kingborough, Cr Jo Westwood said council was very proud of Kingborough's army of volunteers and the support they provide to the community.

Acting Mayor Westwood acknowledged National Volunteer Week, which runs from Monday 17 until Sunday 23 May, 2021.

"Volunteers around Tasmania contribute the equivalent of $4 billion to our economy each year," Acting Mayor Westwood said.

"National Volunteer Week is an important time to celebrate and acknowledge the significant contributions made by our volunteers in Kingborough.

"This week council will be sharing video messages on its website and Facebook page, shining a light on some of the wonderful volunteers and the community members they help.

"Our Kingborough Volunteer Program assists people aged 65 and over with basic support services, enabling them continue to live in their own homes.

"Volunteers offer transport, gardening and pet support.

"The real benefit is the social support provided for the clients, which cannot be underestimated.

"Transport is the most popular service requested and the volunteers assist their clients in getting to and from medical appointments, grocery shopping, hairdressers and attending social engagements," continued Acting Mayor Westwood.

"Walking dogs is also a regular request for members of our community.

"Some participants use the service long-term, whilst others just use it to help them manage whilst they are recovering from surgery or injury.

Overdue $48 million investment

Federal money has been allocated to road works to facilitate the controversial housing development at Huntingfield, as part of the Federal Government's 2021-22 Budget.

A road infrastructure project involving a grade separated interchange on Algona Road and duplication of the Kingston Bypass was allocated $48 million in federal funding.

Algona Road, linking Blackmans Bay and Kingston, has been an ongoing safety concern due to numerous accidents and fatalities.

The existing Kingston Bypass connects Algona Road to the Channel Highway and Southern Outlet.

Acting Mayor of Kingborough Council, Cr Jo Westwood welcomed the funding announcement on May 12.

"This project will help reduce traffic congestion in an area that causes headaches for hundreds of residents on a daily basis," commented Acting Mayor Westwood.

"Traffic congestion is a major cause of angst, resulting from a rapidly growing population and infrastructure that is struggling to keep pace."

Rates surely can't increase

Dear Editor,
I believe in light of the excessive and obscene spending on the Kingston Playground, that at least for a couple of decades we are safe from any rate increases.

Surely no council would dare spend so excessively on what is essentially a luxury item and then have the audacity to increase rates.

As I have said before, I am certainly not alone in thinking this.

I believe if there was a rate increase after spending so much on a playground, there would be protests in the streets of Kingston.

Manslaughter trial delayed

The court proceedings for the manslaughter of Reid Ludwig has continued to be delayed, most recently due to a report not being completed.

The Supreme Court of Tasmania are waiting on a report whether the teenage boy facing the manslaughter charge is fit to stand trial, with an assessment being required for the teenage boy's autism spectrum disorder and cognitive function.

The report is expected to take another three to four weeks, even though it was previously expected to be complete in early May.

Mr Ludwig was fatally stabbed outside the Blackmans Bay Coles Express service station in November 2019.

The 17-year-old boy previously entered a plea of not guilty to murder before it was downgraded to manslaughter.

He has not yet entered a plea to that charge.

The teenager has been remanded in custody with the case adjourned for an additional directions hearing on June 17.

New interchange

The Kingborough Chronicle wrote to State Members of Parliament Nic Street MP and Jacquie Petrusma MP in October 2020 regarding their awareness of any private interests in the Huntingfield development.

Ms Petrusma and Mr Street replied that they were not aware of any private interest in the Huntingfield development.

The Kingborough Chronicle is again awaiting a response.

Minister Ferguson confirmed on May 13 that the concept design for the Algona Road grade separated interchange and Kingston Bypass project is as published in the Channel Highway (Algona Road to Sandfly Road) Corridor Study Report, dated September 2020.

An image of the proposed works can be found on page 73 of the report, available at https://www.transport.tas.gov.au/projects/planning/plans\_strategies\_and\_policies/channel\_highway\_-\_kingston\_to\_margate\_planning\_study

Busy little bees

Tramway Hill Landcare Group volunteers again dedicated their time and energy to maintaining the Davis Flat Reserve.

Roz Thurn, Morris Worsley, Angela Brinkhoff and David Reynolds put in a total of 12 man-hours at the recent working bee, benefitting from clear weather.

Weeding of Scotch thistle, other types of thistle, broom, Spanish heath, briar rose, hawthorn, forget-me-not, cotoneaster and some blackberries was among the work tackled by the volunteers, as well as removing stakes and guards from the larger plants.

Between working bees, some weeding on Nierinna Creek Reserve and Brinks Link was undertaken.

Further weeding, securing/removing stakes and guards on all sites and assisting a neighbouring riparian zone with weeding and planting will be the focus for the upcoming working bee on May 28.

The latest Tramway Hill Landcare Group working bee at Davis Flat Reserve, Margate was held on Friday, April 30. (PS)

Volunteer finalists announced

Volunteering Tasmania recently announce the finalists for this year's Tasmanian Volunteering Awards.

Tasmanians from all over the state, from Kettering to Smithton, have been recognised as finalists for this year's awards.

As an active fire fighter and member of the Kingston Fire Brigade for the past 12 years, Blackmans Bay local Chris Walker regularly responds to incidents in the region.

As well as his work with the fire brigade, Chris is active in many other community initiatives and is passionate and driven to help his community, which has earned him a finalist placing for the Community Care and Health Volunteer Award.

Edge Radio host Niamh Chapman of Kingston has become a finalist in the Education, Science and Technology Volunteer Award.

Niamh volunteers as weekly host and director of That's What I Call Science (TWICS), a radio show and podcast on Edge Radio.

TWICS is produced by an all-women team of experts in science, technology, engineering and maths (STEM), and is managed by Niamh to engage local communities with accessible and interesting content, while showcasing the diversity in STEM.

For the Arts, Heritage, Tourism and Events Volunteer Award, Kettering local Charles Burns has become a finalist due to his volunteer work with Heritage Sailing Tasmania.

Charles is the skipper of the SV Rhona H and dedicates over 300 days each year to the vessel, Charles keeps the crew performing at their very best and promotes Tasmania all at once.

Lorraine Walker of Kingston is a finalist in the Lifetime Achievement Volunteer Award for her work with the Rotary Club of D'Entrecasteaux Channel.

Lorraine has made significant contributions to the Tasmanian community, becoming an inspirational role model in the process.

Lorraine has volunteered for more than 40 years for numerous Tasmanian services, community and sporting organisations.

Kingston local Isabella Oakley dedicates her time to helping the vulnerable members of the Kingborough Community through Kingborough Helping Hands, leading to a finalist nomination in the Youth Volunteer Award, presented in partnership with Youth Network of Tasmania (YNOT).

Bella has played a vital role in her community since she was seven years old, becoming involved with Kingborough Helping Hands during this time as well as being an active member of the St Aloysius Catholic College school community by leading school tours, providing support to new students and volunteering for the school's Vinnies group.

In the Best Practice in Volunteer Management Award category, Peter Harvey of Blackmans Bay has been nominated as a finalist for his work with Kingborough Community Missions (KCM).

Peter inspires his team of volunteers to make a difference in the community, through their contributions to the KCM.

The volunteers cook and distribute thousands of nutritious meals to disadvantaged people, particularly the homeless, in Southern Tasmania.

National Volunteer Week celebrates the significant contribution of Australia's almost six million volunteers, who dedicate more than 600 million hours to help others.

The theme 'Recognise. Reconnect. Reimagine.' acknowledges it is time to recognise, celebrate and thank volunteers for the vital role they play in our lives; to reconnect to what is important by giving our time to help others and ourselves and to reimagine how we can better support volunteers and the communities they help.

A total of 21 volunteers, four volunteer programs and three volunteer managers from the arts, sport, education, environment, emergency services and the community sector have made the prestigious final list.

The judging panels for the awards were made up of 36 representatives from awards sponsors and industry experts, who had the difficult task of identifying the finalists in each award category.

Volunteering Tasmania's CEO Dr Lisa Schimanski said this year's judging presented challenging choices.

"We received feedback from many judges that it has been a very difficult decision-making process to identify finalists in each category, as all nominees have made significant contributions to volunteering and their communities," Dr Schimanski remarked.

"Volunteering has long been a driver of individual and community wellbeing, contributing more than $4 billion to our state every year and providing enormous social and cultural benefits.

"The Tasmanian Volunteering Awards celebrate those amazing people contributing in a multitude of ways, and every contribution is significant."

The winners will be announced at an awards ceremony on May 17, at Blundstone Arena to mark the start of National Volunteer Week.

Her Excellency, the Honourable, Professor Kate Warner AC is the patron for the event and will be presenting the awards to the winners.

Volunteer kindness

"The time spent by the volunteers with their clients provides valuable connections to support older people to avoid social isolation," Acting Mayor Westwood explained.

"Research indicates the negative health-related impacts of social isolation is similar to smoking a packet of cigarettes a day."

Acting Mayor Westwood said the council program had been operating throughout Kingborough since July 2012 and this year managed approximately 60 volunteers and helped around 170 community members.

Volunteer Program client, Gaenor said the kindness shown by her volunteer helped her to remain living in her own home.

"I don't have to rely on busy working families, I can do shopping at more suitable hours," Gaenor said.

"The gardening help has been a godsend.

"I could never have kept up with it."

The Kingborough Volunteer Program would like to help some more Kingborough residents.

If you're aged over 65 years and living at home, please consider our support.

Relieving nappy stress

Unneeded, disposable nappies sitting in the cupboard could make a real difference to families in the Kingborough community.

From May 7 to 21, national charity The Nappy Collective is encouraging locals to clean out their cupboards and donate their leftover, unused disposable nappies to babies of families in crisis.

According to the charity, 280,000 Australia children across 150,000 families don't have enough nappies to keep them healthy and comfortable, resulting in a situation known as "nappy stress".

The Nappy Collective said over the last two years, the nappy stress figure has worsened by 12 per cent, with families faced with a difficult choice between buying other essentials, such as food and medicine, or enough nappies.

The charity said nappy stress affects families living below the poverty line or in crisis and can have serious impacts on the financial, social, physical and mental wellbeing of families and children.

"Nappy stress is driven by lack of income, high cost of living and broader social disadvantage, all of which have been worsened by the COVID-19 pandemic," commented CEO of The Nappy Collective, Nataly Bovopoulos.

"Single mothers have been hit the hardest by unemployment during the recession and increased housing costs across Australia are making it more difficult for some families to be able to afford nappies.

"Many women and children who seek refuge from family violence flee their homes with nothing, so this support means the world to them and to us."

The charity also works with We Care Connect to distribute nappies where they are needed.

"We know that in poorer families nappies just don't get changed enough," stated Derryk Klarkowski, Executive Officer at We Care Connect.

"But what do you do if your purse is empty and you don't have the amenities to wash reusable nappies, not to mention buying them in the first place?"

Kingston nappy collection points include the Kingston Community Health Centre at 29 John Street, the Mother Goose Baby Shop at 21 Westside Circle and at the Good Price Pharmacy Warehouse at 3/14 Channel Highway.

Tasmanian leader of The Nappy Collective Kelly Direen of Margate recently met with Kingston local and Tassie Mums founder Clair Harris as part of The Nappy Collective Drive running during May. The Nappy Collective hope to provide Tassie Mums with enough nappies to fill their yearly needs thanks to the drive. (PS)

COMMENT COLUMN

with Kingborough Councillor Gideon Cordover

Tree-lined street strategy

I would like a Street Tree Strategy for Kingborough.

Let me explain what it is and why I think it will be helpful. A Street Tree Strategy contains a vision, principles and goals for trees in the public realm.

I'd like it to include canopy coverage targets and a plan for improving our townships' green living infrastructure.

It is a document that explains best-practice guidelines for how to establish, manage, protect and enhance Kingborough's urban forest.

Our municipality is blessed with incredible natural landscapes and vistas.

From our remnant native forested hillsides to our incredible coastal cliffs, if you like nature, Kingborough has it all.

We are also in the midst of a growth spurt.

Our community has record levels of development, with new families moving in droves to benefit from the great lifestyle that living in Kingborough affords.

We should be planning now for decades ahead, so that the growth we experience today does not come at the expense of our future neighbourhood amenity.

One way of improving our built environment is to make plans for beautiful, tree-lined streets and to recognise trees as critical 'green infrastructure' which provide economic and social value just like our 'grey infrastructure' does.

I would argue that our urban forest has some ethereal and spiritual value too, but we will leave that conversation for another day.

In Hobart, residential streets like Fitzroy Place and Landsdowne Crescent have benefitted from far-sighted street tree planting in the 1930s.

Whilst native trees have their own beauty and charm, deciduous trees allow for shade in summer and solar access in winter.

Some species are also better at handling pollution than others.

The City of Hobart Street Tree Strategy is a wonderfully informative document that asks, 'Is Hobart a beautiful city in a beautiful place or a city in a beautiful place?'

I think we should ask the same question about Kingborough's townships and urbanised areas.

People are moving into Kingborough because of its natural setting, but are we doing enough to ensure that in 50 or 80 years that we will have welcoming boulevards like Salamanca Place or Landsdowne Crescent?

The same report for the City of Hobart extolls the benefits of street trees.

For example, "trees absorb particulate matter and are a key mechanism in scrubbing a city's air; indeed, they are one of the only and best 'dust mops' available!"

The report gives evidence for trees improving physical health and wellbeing.

In commercial areas, trees improve the economy by attracting customers and enticing them to stay longer and spend more.

Studies have shown that living in a street with 10 or more trees gave health benefits equivalent to being seven years younger.

Street trees lower the crime rate, reduce vandalism and improve childhood development.

One study from Perth found that "a broad-leaved tree on the street verge increases the median property price by about $16,889".

The ecosystem services provided by trees in urban environments are significant, intercepting stormwater, sequestering carbon and cleaning the air.

In the City of Dandenong, you can even browse the edible fruits and veggies being grown by their council gardeners on roundabouts and verges.

In developing the Kingston Place Strategy, over 1850 people were asked what future directions they wanted for central Kingston.

Overwhelmingly, people said they wanted their central business district to be green, clean and connected.

People asked for lush green shaded streets and unique natural features, bringing nature into the centre, increased tree canopy, scenic views and green spaces.

Currently, there is no master plan for our urban forest. A Street Tree Strategy for Kingborough will give us a way forward.

Cat prohibited area consultation

Kingborough Councillors unanimously voted in favour of consulting the community on a proposal for Cat Prohibited Areas in council reserves near the Peter Murrell Reserve.

The decision was made at a council meeting on May 3. A Cat Management Strategy, which included eight recommendations for improving cat management across Southern Tasmania, was also accepted by the councillors.

In a media release on May 6, Cr Paula Wriedt said Peter Murrell Reserve is already declared a Cat Prohibited Area as it is a biodiversity hotspot and the unanimous decision to approve public consultation on nearby council reserves was a positive step forward.

"The Kingborough Council has been one of the leading councils in dealing with cat management," Cr Wriedt said. "This is a positive step forward in further strengthening our management of cats."

"The Algona, Coffee Creek and Huntingfield Reserves are all owned by council and lie immediately adjacent to the Peter Murrell Reserve."

"Peter Murrell Reserve is already declared a Cat Prohibited Area as it is a biodiversity hotspot."

"We have other prohibited areas around Kingborough such as Borenia Beach and the Suncoast track," Cr Wriedt noted.

"Cat Prohibited Areas are a very important part of protecting the wildlife in those areas."

"Anyone who's ever owned a cat will know that if you let them outside they roam, so it is important that we create areas which are safe from cats and bring the community along with us."

"A stray cat will kill 750 animals and birds every year, so this is an important area to protect."

"Nineteen native mammals and 90 bird species have been recorded within the diverse habitats of Peter Murrell Reserve."

"Among the conservation-significant species are the threatened eastern quoll, eastern-barred bandicoot, Tasmanian devil, forty-spotted pardalote, grey goshawk and Swift parrot."

Cr Wriedt said the Cat Management Strategy provided direction for future cat management activities and highlighted that there was more to do to increase public education in responsible cat ownership.

Councillor conduct disgrace

On May 1, seven Kingborough councillors united to condemn the actions of one of their own, after an incident of sexism escalated to verbal aggression and threats of physical violence.

David Grace towards Cr Paula Wriedt which took place in November last year.

Cr Wriedt was confronted with verbal aggression and threatened with physical violence after calling attention to sexist language used by Cr Grace during a council workshop.

"On November 2, 2020, Cr David Grace threatened our colleague with physical violence in our workplace, the Kingborough Council Chambers," read the statement from the seven councillors.

"Consequently, Cr Paula Wriedt felt concerned enough for her safety to ask to be escorted to the council carpark after the workshop and has felt unsafe within the council chambers since.

"The Code of Conduct panel found Cr David Grace guilty of numerous breaches of the Code of Conduct. "We condemn in the strongest possible terms the actions of Cr Grace that led to the breaches of the Code. "Everyone has the right to be safe and feel safe within their workplace, but Cr Paula Wriedt has been denied that."

Cr Wriedt submitted a complaint about the incident to the Code of Conduct Panel following the incident.

The Panel upheld the complaint and directed Cr Grace to apologise to Cr Wriedt and to Kingborough Council for the embarrassment caused by his behaviour as well as directing him to attend six hours of anger management and appropriate workplace behaviour counselling.

As well as stating their support for Cr Wriedt, the collective of councillors expressed their disappointment that harsher penalties were not imposed by the Code of Conduct Panel following the incident.

"Cr Grace's behaviour was completely unacceptable," continued the statement.

"We are disappointed that the Code of Conduct Panel did not use the more serious sanctions available to it under the Act."

The councillors' statement encouraged a review of the Code of Conduct Panel, stating that "the Local Government Sector no longer has confidence" in its processes.

At the time of printing, Cr Grace had not yet issued an apology to either Cr Wriedt or Kingborough Council, having been absent without apology from the May 3 council meeting, and was due to apologise at the May 17 meeting last night.

Mayor moves on

On his final day as mayor, Friday, May 14, Dean Winter provided a statement regarding his time as Mayor of Kingborough and his upcoming move to State Parliament.

"Today is my last day as Mayor of Kingborough Council.

"I am genuinely grateful to my community for giving me that honour and I'll miss being a part of the council organisation.

"I have had the best job in local government because of the team I have been able to work with.

"From our elected members, who often disagree but always come together behind a decision; to our workforce who continue to deliver not just because it's their job, but because they love this place.

"Almost seven years ago I walked into my first council meeting having never seen a meeting before.

"I have learnt so much about our community that I didn't know, despite having lived here most of my life.

"From the community associations who passionately organise to make their areas better; the clubs who create vibrant networks of volunteers; and to the local businesses who often act as the glue that bring towns and suburbs together; I have loved getting to know you.

"I have learnt more about our history.

"Over 40,000 years of aboriginal people as custodians and carers for this land.

"There was and is an incredible indigenous culture here that should always be acknowledged and respected.

"I've been shown old photos and heard the stories from the establishment of Kingston and other townships through generations of hard work.

"For my last day, I'll be presiding over a Citizenship Ceremony in Kingston, making 40 people from 16 countries Australian Citizens.

"It's the best thing a mayor gets to do and I've got lucky that it's fallen on my last day.

"For the next month or so, we're all lucky to have Cr Jo Westwood acting as mayor until the outcome of the upcoming election.

"Jo has been the best deputy I could have asked for. "She is smart, reliable and understands our community.

"Thanks again for your support and encouragement.

"I'll still be around with my office in Kingston and will keep working hard for you in my new role."

Conquer your inner critic

Kingborough Council, through its Learning for Life program, is holding practical sessions aimed at helping people reduce the negative thought patterns that can lead to chronic anxiety and depression.

The sessions help participants to take back control and stop their inner critic.

The inner critic is that little voice inside people that criticises, shames and puts ourselves down when things aren't going how we think they should be.

It is possible to ignore the voice and try to think about something else or distract ourselves with shopping, eating, drinking or working, but it can still have a way of making itself heard.

Lalita from Stress Free Fast will be teaching some simple exercises, tools and techniques to assist participants in taking back control and stopping their inner critic in its tracks.

Lalita is a Stress Release Practitioner/Pain Coach with over 30 years' experience in health, wellness, mental health counselling and mind/body connection.

Lalita asks participants to "think about the times when your inner critic shows up the most?"

She believes it's mostly in stressful situations when an individual is under pressure, makes a mistake or fails at undertaking a task, or when a person lets themselves or other people down.

"The inner critic contributes to depression, anxiety, phobias, self-harm and most mental illnesses," said Lalita.

Lalita techniques aim to help participants reduce negative thought patterns and to stop negative thought habits ruining daily life.

This practical session will be held at the Kingborough Community Hub on Wednesday, May 26, from 6.30pm to 8pm.

A small fee applies.

Stroke volunteer award winner

Jake Vincent of Kingston has been announced as a winner in the national 2021 Stroke Awards for his dedication to the Stroke Foundation's StrokeSafe Program and providing a voice as a young survivor of stroke.

Almost 70 nominations were received in six award categories, with the awards announced in an online celebration.

Mr Vincent won the Volunteer of the Year award category, which recognises outstanding volunteers whose dedicated service has made a significant difference.

According to the Stroke Foundation, there is one stroke in Australia every 19 minutes and more than 445,000 survivors of stroke live in the Australian community.

Stroke Foundation Chief Executive Officer Sharon McGowan congratulated the winners for their outstanding efforts.

"The thing I love about the Stroke Awards is the light they shine on the selfless endeavours of people who make life better for survivors of stroke and reduce the burden of the disease on our community," Ms McGowan said.

"These people include survivors themselves, carers, volunteers, health professionals and researchers.

"I applaud their creative thinking and can do spirit, and thank them for their contribution to our mission to prevent stroke, save lives and enhance recovery."

High-risk travel

Kingborough residents who have recently returned from, or are travelling to another state face increased risks, with current alerts in place for Victoria, New South Wales and Western Australia.

The most recent alerts have risen from the discovery of a COVID-19 case in Victoria, prompting the Tasmanian Deputy Director of Public Health to declare a number of new premises as high-risk locations, effective from Wednesday, May 12.

A list of premises can be found at <https://coronavirus.tas.gov.au/travellers-and-visitors/coming-to-tasmania/travel-alert>

Anyone who arrived in Tasmania from Victoria on or after May 5, has been contacted and advised to review the list of high-risk premises.

Anyone who has been at these sites at the time and date specified is required to isolate immediately and call the Public Health Hotline on 1800 671 738 for further advice and to arrange testing.

A person who intends to travel to Tasmania who has been at a high-risk premises at the dates and times specified will not be permitted to enter the state unless approved by the Deputy State Controller as an Essential Traveller.

The list of high-risk premises may change as the Victoria public health response progresses and it should be checked regularly by anyone who has recently been in Victoria.

Importantly, if anyone has any cold or flu symptoms, even mild, contact the Public Health Hotline on 1800 671 738 to arrange a test.

Further advice will be issued as Victorian authorities continue contact tracing.

Military collectables on show

Southern Christian College student and Australian Army Cadet Sergeant (CDT SGT) Jamie Taws collated and exhibited a selection of Australian military items belonging to his family members at the Kingston Library during April.

Items on display included hats, lapel badges, hat badges and uniform patches.

Kingston Library Customer Services Officer Jane Dobbs facilitated the exhibition and noted the initiative taken by CDT SGT Taws.

"He's probably the youngest person we've had doing a display," remarked Jane Dobbs.

CDT SGT Taws has lived in Kingston since age two and is a member of the 63 Army Cadet Unit (ACU).

His father, SGT Jayson Taws, is located at the Derwent Barracks, while his mother, Rebecca, has experience in the Australian Army Reserves.

Meanwhile, his uncle served with the Australian forces in Afghanistan and East Timor.

Speaking with the Kingborough Chronicle on April 29, Commanding Officer of 63ACU, Captain (CAPT) Bune Keo, said CDT SGT Taws' had developed positively through his learning and participation in the unit, gaining confidence.

"When I first saw him walk through our barracks he was quiet and I've seen him change," CAPT Bune Keo remarked.

CDT SGT Taws was a member of the catafalque party in the Anzac Day 2021 service at Claremont War Memorial on April 25.

"After all the training I have done, I can see the difference in myself since being part of the cadets" said CDT SGT Taws.

Stormwater to sea

Educating the community about stormwater drains has taken on an artistic approach, incorporating the creativity of Kingborough's young people as part of Kingborough Council's Stormwater to Sea project.

Acting Mayor of Kingborough, Cr Jo Westwood said the project was developed to open the community's eyes to stormwater pollution and harness the talent of our local youth over the school holidays.

"With the help of Kingborough Council's Arts and Youth Officers, the team of young artists created a collection of stencil paintings," said Acting Mayor Westwood.

"Their motivation was to emphasise the point that what-ever goes into stormwater drains, ends up in the sea."

"These artworks will be used to inspire a stencil design to be spray painted on footpaths and drains around Kingborough to encourage people to think about pollutants and waste ending up in the sea."

The stencil art was on display at the Youth Arts Showcase held at the Community Hub on Saturday, May 8 and was well received by the public.

Kingborough Council's Natural Areas Interpretation Officer Bridget Jupe noted the strong interest and engagement with both the art and the council stormwater information stall.

"The public were very supportive of the project and especially interested in the fact that young people were leading the charge on environmental issues," Ms Jupe said.

Kingborough Council's Natural Areas Interpretation Officer Bridget Jupe and Stormwater and Waterways Engineer Alex Aronsson educated the Kingborough community about stormwater drains recently. (PS)

St Michael's Collegiate School of Performing Arts Program aims to extend students in many ways and for a variety of purposes, including performances for the school community and public. (PS)

Getting ready to perform

St Michael's Collegiate is renowned for its commitment to the performing arts.

The School of Performing Arts (SPA) is their exciting and innovative 'school within a school' and is a specialist offering to talented students in Years 8 to 10.

This program provides a high calibre performing arts experience, so students can develop as communicative artists, instilled with the dedication and understanding to reach within themselves to affect and move audiences.

Across the key disciplines of acting, dance and singing, each of these specialised streams build on the core skills students already have in their chosen area, and provides further opportunities through technical training, master classes, specialised tutoring and workshops, performance evenings and eisteddfods.

It all takes place in the McNeill Performing Arts Centre, home to a 250-seat theatre, dance studio, drama studio, practice rooms and dressing rooms.

The SPA Program aims to extend students in many ways, and for a variety of purposes, including creating performances both for the school community and wider public audiences.

The students themselves are also exposed to a wide range of local and interstate concerts and performances. St Michael's Collegiate have designed SPA to prepare students to audition for a range of performing arts schools and can act as a pathway to both non and pre-tertiary level courses such as dance, drama, theatre performance and music.

It is led by an experienced SPA teaching team, committed to passing on their extensive industry knowledge about life in the performing arts.

All have a vast range of repertoire and connections to both local and interstate professionals and artists.

The team consists of:

- Liz Harper, a specialist drama educator, old girl, NIDA and Theatre Nepean graduate.
- Jane Edwards, one of Australia's leading singing educators in classical and musical theatre.
- Ali Richardson-Hickey, a dance educator with specialisation in ballet, lyrical and contemporary.

Students from Years 8 to 10 are accepted into the SPA program through an audition process in their stream of acting, singing and dance.

Auditions will be held in the week beginning Tuesday, June 15 for current and new students entering Years 8, 9 and 10 in 2022.

For more information about the SPA Program and the audition process, please contact Debbie Kelly on debbie.kelly@collegiate.tas.edu.au or 6211 4911.

Promoting wellbeing priority at Hutchins

The Hutchins School is embarking upon its new Strategic Direction for 2021 and beyond.

Deputy Headmaster and Head of Senior School, Mr Richard Davies, said a key area that the Senior School is continuing to develop is the area of wellbeing.

"This term has seen the third group of students come through the nationally recognised and accredited Youth Mental Health First Aid Course," noted Mr Davies.

"The goal of this course is to empower our students to be able to talk about mental health and wellbeing with any member of the school community.

"The importance of these conversations in a society where social media is now the preferred way of communication for young people and where they often feel they are under increasing pressure to perform well academically, in music, in sport and many other areas of life, cannot be overstated.

"We work with staff and students to ensure they are self-aware and cognisant of those around them and are equipped to handle the challenges thrown at them by a world that is changing at what seems an ever-increasing pace.

"Many staff will have a mentor group of about 18 students who they check in with each day to ensure they are well cared for," said Mr Davies.

"Each member of staff is trained in mental health first aid and in areas such as alcohol and drug education.

"The aim of the pastoral program in the Senior School is to tie in with the Strategic Directions vision to 'Nurture an inclusive community of care that values the uniqueness of each individual and builds authentic relationships amongst all members of the school community'.

"As students and staff increase in their knowledge and confidence of supporting each other and understanding the trials of a young person going through school, which are already very different from those that their parents/carers may have had 25 years ago, the school continues to grow into a community that values and cares for all."

St Aloysius Catholic College and Project 23

Following the successful transition from a K-6 school to a K-10 college in 2009, the original Vodafone building at 50 Huntingfield Avenue will be the site of the new senior campus of St Aloysius, subject to approvals.

Considerable consultation in relation to the design of the building interior, as well as external landscaping has been taking place over the past 12 months between staff and students from the college and Catholic Education Tasmania (CET).

The process of consultation is a necessarily lengthy one to ensure that the building and surrounds are age appropriate and responsive to the academic, social, emotional and physical needs of senior secondary students in the 21st century.

Project 23 involves a partnership between St Virgils, MacKillop, St Aloysius, Guilford Young and St Mary's Colleges.

This partnership enables the schools to share expertise, staffing and other resources as they prepare to open their senior campus.

The pastoral care and wellbeing of students will continue to be at the core at the senior campus of St Aloysius.

It is important, as they prepare to open their new campus, that policies and procedures are age appropriate and offer a learning environment which is more suited to the needs of young adults, particularly as students reach Years 11 and 12.

To this end, St Aloysius will be consulting with students, parents and staff in the coming weeks and months to ensure that their senior campus practices, structures, procedures and policies are reflective of the growing maturity of the students and their need for greater independence within a safe, supportive and structured learning environment.

St Aloysius Catholic College is excited to expand its offerings to serve students in Years 11 and 12 in 2023, approvals permitting.

Matilda is on stage at Hobart College

The Hobart College production has always been a highlight on the College calendar and this year's musical Matilda - The Musical is shaping up to be extra special following the cancellation of the 2020 production due to COVID-19.

The Year 11 and 12 cast, band and crew have been working hard since February to bring the story of Matilda to the stage.

Director Jeff Michel has been very impressed with the student's enthusiasm this year.

"It's been such a pleasure getting back into the theatre after last year," remarked Mr Michel.

"The students obviously missed the musical and that is reflected in how they've thrown themselves into Matilda."

Based on the novel Matilda by Roald Dahl, Matilda - The Musical follows the story of a girl who, through her small acts of rebellion, seeks to bring about a child uprising against mean and nasty adults.

The all-student cast and band will perform for the first time in the newly refurbished Mount Nelson Theatre in front of a capacity audience supported by students from the Technical Theatre course utilising state of the art industry standard equipment.

The performance season of Matilda - The Musical runs from May 28 to June 5 at the Mount Nelson Theatre, Hobart College with tickets available through trybooking.com.

Hobart College students Evie Shipway, as Matilda and Gabbi Lohrey, as Miss Honey (centre), with the Revolting Class cast members will be performing Matilda - The Musical on stage at the Mount Nelson Theatre from May 28 to June 5. (PS)

Opportunities to discover, learn and thrive

Southern Christian College has long been known for hands on learning environments and inquiry-based education.

The two are now combined in the new student-directed garden program.

Involvement in the garden provides students with authentic learning situations and problems to solve.

Recently, nibbled leaves and chewed sprouts were a sign that students were not the only ones enjoying the garden.

While reading Peter Rabbit in the classroom, one may feel empathy for the cottontails, however, the reality of those flop-ears in the beloved garden made most students choose Team McGregor.

Trenches were dug, wire inserted, fences mended and gates blocked to protect the produce from further destruction.

A serious problem addressed and solved by students.

Researching, designing and developing a new hot house has been the most recent project.

There has been much excitement as students have raised funds, prepared the area and watched various stages of construction.

The students will learn about propagation, water resource management and being good financial managers.

The Southern Christian College garden provides wonderful opportunities for all students to be involved.

The sensory garden contains plants which the children can touch, smell and taste.

Students are free to dig and plant and get their hands dirty.

The hothouse will provide a quiet space for students experiencing sensory overload to take a break and take care of the plants.

The program promotes healthy and active lifestyles for children.

Vegetables produced by the garden provide a delicious reward for all who have laboured there.

Like the students, the garden project is growing, ever-changing and full of promise.

Southern Christian College's new student-directed garden program provides students with authentic learning situations and problems to solve such as dealing with pests, designing a hot house, propagation, water management and financial management. (PS)

Co-located with the Kingborough Sports Precinct, KHS is consciously evolving into a centre of excellence for sports, health and wellbeing.

A focus on innovative teaching and learning, alongside student wellbeing, are exemplified by a curriculum delivered by staff who set high expectations and work hard to support each student to achieve their best.

Students at the centre of teaching methods and staff work with the community to create workplace-based and interest-based learning opportunities.

State of the art specialist buildings take full advantage of students' individual interests and aspirations.

In addition to the core subjects of English, Mathematics, Science, Humanities and Health and Physical Education, students can undertake specialist learning in a variety of other disciplines including STEM subjects such as robotics, game design and programming, visual and performing arts and design and technology projects in wood, metal or mixed media.

KHS has the explicit aim of developing successful, aspirational and responsible citizens.

The school is recognised for its inclusive practices, whereby students' needs and learning supports are co-constructed with the involvement of students, families and other agencies.

KHS reflects the diversity of the school community and advocates for each student's identity by enacting the values of harmony, learning, achievement, diversity, citizenship and respect stated in the school vision.

Another highlight was the win by team Monks; John McRoberts, Pat Balcombe, Jann Baxter and skip Steven Graetzer, who won over the Cygnet based team McLlroy by 18 shots and improved their position on the ladder from 13th to 10th.

After the end of this round, team Rosevears drops out of the top six to be replaced by Newbolds, with team Maree Morgan, after their win of nine shots over Team Hickey poised to strike from their position seven spot.

Five of the top six teams at the end of Week 5 are unchanged from last week; Cawthorn, Mus, Baker, Hinkley and Chaffey, with Newbolds this week added into the mix.

This juggernaut team have the outstanding result of being plus 98 shots up, which averages out their winning margin per game just under 20 shots.

Four teams are battling for second place on the ladder, all four having won four games and all four only separated by seven shots up overall.

In fourth place on 12 points and plus 45 shots up are the Royal Hobart Dodgers and also on 12 points and one shot behind Dodgers is Better Performance with plus 44 shots up.

Results of the nights play saw the Dynamics account for the Claremont Monties 18-7.

The Mark Burgess Seagulls wiped the deck with the Scrubbers, defeating them 19-13 while the Cherry Pickers turned their hand to stripping Oak Trees when they downed the Oaktree Raiders 22-10.

Sylvia Titan ran rings around the Sandy Bay Boomers defeating them 23-12, the South Africans cleaned up the Leftovers 34-9 and Willie's Wonkers darted over the Royal Hobart Dodgers downing them 21-10.
