Woodbridge Life celebrates end of year

The celebratory year of events marking life in and around Woodbridge concluded earlier this month with a community photograph by the water's edge at Silverwater Park.

During the past 12 months, 11 events have been staged ranging from performances of the play Lily at the school, to the use of the village buildings as a stage for residents past and present to tell their Stories of Woodbridge and the natural beauty of the district shown off at its best via visits to the Gardens of Woodbridge weekend.

It hasn't been without its challenges as the spectre of COVID inevitably hovered over the early events.

Yet the staging of Woodbridge Life 2022 has served to remind residents and visitors alike of the district's long history coupled with its natural charm and beauty, factors which continue to attract people to live or visit regularly.

The celebratory year generated a number of very positive outcomes.

It has seen the birth of the local theatre group WATCH.

With the sell-out success of their first play (Lily), they are now planning a new production for next year.

The flood of stories supplied by residents' research and recollections for the Stories of Woodbridge are to be collated and published in book form.

Buoyed by the responses to the Woodbridge Water Fest and Gardens of Woodbridge, coordinators Ann Dechaineaux and Jo Dixon have indicated that these two events are quite likely to be held on an irregular basis in the future.

As a finale to the year, the community enjoyed the annual Christmas BBQ at West Winds Community Centre.

Conveniently ignored

Dear Editor,
The salmon industry spokesperson writes a feisty letter attacking me as an “activist” bent on destroying her industry.
Acknowledging that personal attacks are the last resort of those with no rational argument left, may I reply to some of her comments?
When the Atlantic salmon industry boasts better environmental outcomes than land-based animal production it relies on questionable carbon emission statistics alone.
It utterly ignores its environmental impact on public waterways, marine life, reefs, seabeds and communities.

Well wishes from Kingborough Mayor

“I am excited to welcome my sister and her family this Christmas from interstate for the first time in three years.
I’m looking forward to smell of turkey cooking, and the sounds of laughter.
I hope that whatever your plans are that you are able to spend some time with people who are important to you.
For some, I know that Christmas can be a stressful time, but hopefully whatever your plans, you can be surrounded by your loved ones and recharge your energy for the year ahead.”
Paula Wriedt, Kingborough Mayor

When the industry says antibiotics are used in all animal production, it fails to acknowledge that the salmon industry is unique in dumping hundreds of kilos of antibiotics directly into public waterways and then tries to cover it up.
It also ignores the fact that salmon mortalities are many, many times greater than stock on land — most dying from deformity, disease and slow suffocation in oxygen-depleted waters.
When industry accuses me of being “hell bent on destroying” it, it fails to mention that community organisations like Neighbours of Fish Farming do not oppose the industry — they oppose practices that are truly disgusting.
They spew thousands of tonnes of raw sewage, antibiotics and chemicals straight into our waters and they do it every day of the year.
Industry pens in Storm Bay alone discharge more nitrogen pollution than the sewage of five times (five!)
Hobart’s entire population.
When the industry quotes WWF on the need for increased aquaculture it is deliberately disingenuous.
It ignores the many other types of aquaculture far less polluting than open-net salmon cages and the global shift by more enlightened investment in land-based, recirculating fish farms.
The industry conveniently ignores that in 2018 WWF withdrew its cute panda logo endorsing the industry when it realised the industry could not support its claims of sustainability.
In claiming to “feed the world”, the industry continues to exploit impoverished nations by plundering their wild-fish to be ground into fishmeal that feeds the salmon that winds up on the table of consumers in rich countries.

Also ground into that fishmeal is soy from unsustainable sources, including cleared Amazon forests, chicken beaks, feet, feathers and offal from battery hen farms and now from wild krill, the tiny crustacean that is a building block for all sea life.
It’s no surprise that an industry mouthpiece defends multinationals whose record of corruption, regulatory failure, litigation and environmental vandalism are a global byword.
It’s a tough job but someone has to do it.
But to attack me for “activism” is mistaken.
I am doing no more than voicing the concerns of thousands of Tasmanians around the state who have witnessed the salmon industry destroying their precious waterways, coastlines, marine life and commuty tranquility.
No industry should ever be allowed to get away with that.
Peter George
President, Neighbours of Fish Farming

Rates and rubbish

Dear Editor,
Surely it is not in council guidelines to use ratepayers’ money to fund activities outside of roads, rates and rubbish?
Ratepayers now battling cost of living pressures cannot afford to fund events outside of their mandate.
Councillors Antolli and Richardson appear to be the only councillors who understand the plight of ratepayers.

Christmas care urged

Kingston, South Bruny Island and Channel fire brigades have urged residents to take care this holiday season.
Spokespeople from each fire brigade noted that this year had seen a reduction to calls regarding fires, but urged residents not to be placid, take note of hazards and call-in emergencies.
“It’s been a quiet year with thirty or so calls, very few car accidents, house fires, mostly false alarms, small brush fires,” said Jake Sanger of the Channel Fire Brigade, but also urged residents to, “make sure you’ve done your bushfire plans and register burns”.

Kingston Fire Brigade reminded the public to complete five-minute bushfire plan, be safe during summer, and offered a big thanks to the support of Kingborough community.
South Bruny Island Fire Brigade extended well wishes to the community, saying have a great holiday on Bruny, take care on the roads and merry Christmas.

Local schools snap up awards

Kingborough students, teachers and schools have excelled in this year’s local 20th annual MyState Student Film Festival awards, announced on 29 November in the at The Hedberg Studio Theatre in Hobart.
Entries for the festival are open to primary, secondary and university students across Australia, and across the last 20 years.
Around 15,000 students have participated in the festival, with 250 winning films, a total of $200,000 in cash and prizes over the festival lifetime, and a dedicated suite of 24 judges — many of whom have been involved since the very first festival.
Almost 300 short films entries were received, with the theme for this year being ‘water’ and more than $20,000 in prizes awarded across 26 categories.
The 26 judges included high profile Tasmanians from film, television, animation, and cinematography — as well as Australian Media Hall of Fame Cinematographer, David Brill, and Premier Jeremy Rockliff.

The Attorney-General and Minister for the Arts, Elise Archer attended presenting the award for Most Engaging Talent from a high school to Ned Davidon of Woodbridge School, while the Cygnet Film School was recognised for technical excellence and screenplay in the film If Water Could Talk.
Another award for Outstanding Teacher Support went to Mr Tom Friend of Margate Primary School.
“It was so incredibly inspiring to attend the MyState Bank Student Film Awards, to celebrate the achievement of Tasmania’s young people and their amazing creativity and technical ability,” Ms Archer said.
“What amazing young talent we have in this State.”
Other highlights included recognition for Taroona High School for the animated film Validated, a documentary collaboration with Friends’ School called Submerged, and the Grade 10 film A Catch. Friends’ School grade 10 students Sam Jones, 16 and Rupert Bullard, 15, winning three awards for their music video for The Ocean, including Best Film (High School), Best Cinematography and Best Music Video.

In Hobart, Goulburn Street Primary School, Lansdowne
Crescent Primary School and South Hobart Primary School each won awards.
“The calibre and diversity of entries was truly magnificent, and I congratulate each one of the 65 schools and every contributing student,” Ms Archer said.
“Importantly, I also acknowledge the hard work and dedication of all the teachers involved in producing these short films and mentoring Tasmanian children and young people,” added Ms Archer.
In addition to MyState Bank, sponsors for this year’s awards included the Tasmanian Government through Screen Tasmania, Blue Rocket, Wide Angle Tasmania, Hit100.9, Cooper Screen Academy, the Australian Film
Television and Radio School, and Jimmy and Nath.
“This is an extraordinary and valued event that has promoted creativity and provided inspiration for so many Tasmanian students over the past two decades - and I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to MyState for its long-running commitment,” said Ms Archer.

Quadrathlon for a bloody great cause

On December 9 and 10 a group of ten mates undertook the 7HOFM Bloody Long Quadrathlon, an endurance event comprising of a 60km kayak, 500km bike ride, 125km run and a 15km swim.

Day 1 saw the team at Kingston Beach for the 60km kayak followed by the bike ride from Kingston Beach to Swansea and return to Sorell. Day 2 began at Sorell with the 125km run to Kingston Beach via the summit of Mt

Wellington followed by the 15km swim at Kingston Beach. The event raised over $25,000 for the Alex Gadomski Fellowship (research into Bone Marrow Failure Syndromes). The team had also undertaken the Bloody Long Run and the Bloody Long Triathlon in previous years which has seen their efforts raise a total of over $100,000 for the Fellowship.

Council permits suffocating development

A proposal for a new gym in Kingston Beach has faced multiple setbacks over what it says has been a protracted process for Development Application's, facilitated by the Kingborough Council.

Alex Gard, the owner of the proposed gym 'Atlas Barbell' says it will have an emphasis in strength sports and events (Strongman, powerlifting, bodybuilding), whilst also offering services for the broader community, such as day-time strength and Pilates classes for the elderly, and an on-site physiotherapist and remedial masseur.

Obtaining permission to convert the existing building into a gym has proven difficult for Alex.

"The nature of the change-of-use permit has meant needing to jump through many expensive roadblocks mostly in regard to noise and parking," Alex said.

As the gym would be operating within a residential area, Kingborough Council requested a noise assessment to determine whether the gym will comply with clauses 20.3.1 and 20.3.2 of the Kingborough Interim Planning Scheme 2015.

Clause 20.3.1 requires that "Hours of operation of a use within 50m of a residential zone must not have an unreasonable impact upon the residential amenity of land" and clause 20.3.2 that, "Noise emissions measured at the boundary of a residential zone must not cause environmental harm within the residential zone".

Noise measurements were conducted by Noise Vibration Consulting between August 17 and August 24, resulting in confirmation that Alex's proposal complies with the two clauses.

Alex met further trouble, with parking presenting an issue. Owing to the size of the building, the Interim Planning Scheme requires 22 parking spaces, whereas only 14 have been supplied.

Alex says this should not be a problem as a good portion of the building (a granny flat at the back) is not generating any use for parking.

"It was just and endless back and forth between council, engineers and planners, of which most people I had engaged to help in the process voiced their own frustrations as to how officious the council was being over a minor parking issue when it was demonstrated early on that it was not a problem," Alex said.

It has taken six months for the proposal to progress to the advertisement phase, where applications can be viewed, supported and objected against by members of the public.

"Some businesses I've heard have had as long as 18 months getting to this point so I am probably lucky," Alex said.

"Endless government rhetoric about supporting small business and giving people a go seems to go completely out the window when it comes to the obstructive, unhelpful and extremely discouraging Development Application process where at times I felt I was being treated like a criminal or at least an unwelcome intruder.

"Having spoken with numerous MP's, councillors and other business owners in Kingborough they are aware of how slow, choked and officious the Development Application process is and that something needs to change as it holds up development and wastes enormous amounts of time and money, directly compromising the success of the business if or when it ever makes it through."

When asked for comment, Franklin MP Dean Winter stated that, "Like all Tasmanian councils, Kingborough Council only administers the planning scheme that is legislated by the Liberal State Government.

"Until the Liberal Government fixes up the mess it has created with its so-called planning reform, these issues will continue, and we will see projects massively delayed.

"What Alex is proposing would provide a valuable facility to the community.

"I am confident he can put forward a project that complies with the planning scheme."

In response MP Michael Ferguson sympathised, stating, "I share Mr Gard's concern that other councils are able to make decisions much more quickly than Kingborough seems to be.

"There is something ironic about the former Mayor of Kingborough's comments trying to blame the Tasmanian Liberal Government in regard to the development application process.

"As he should be aware, Kingborough is still operating in with the old interim planning scheme brought in under Labor and not the Liberal Government's new Tasmanian Planning Scheme."

To view Atlas Barbell's application yourself, head to - <https://www.kingborough.tas.gov.au/development/planning-notices/>

Atlas Barbells owner Alex Gard (middle) with associates Will Rogers (left) and Greg Hayes (right) feel that councils' development application process for new businesses' is convoluted and officious.

Fee-Free TAFE for Franklin

The Australian and Tasmanian governments have signed a 12-month Skills Agreement that will inject more than $23 million into the Tasmanian skills and training sector.

This will provide immediate support for around 3,800 Fee-Free TAFE and vocational education and training (VET) places in 2023, including for students in Franklin.

“Along with tackling skills shortages, these places will benefit Franklin by providing opportunities for school leavers, workers wanting to retrain or upskill, and unpaid carers – who are predominantly women – to get back into the workforce,” said Federal Member for Franklin Julie Collins.

The course list will see about 1,000 Fee-Free TAFE places offered in the care sector – including the 850 in aged care – 450 in hospitality and tourism, 350 in agriculture, 250 in technology and digital, 200 in construction, 150 in sovereign capability, and around 1400 in other priority sectors including foundation skills.

TasTAFE will deliver nearly all of the training, with a portion of non-TAFE providers delivering training in areas of high demand.

Training through Fee-Free TAFE and VET will help drive enrolments in sectors with recognised skills shortages by matching training identified through the skills priority list and Tasmanian specific training needs.

The 12-month Skills Agreement is the first stage of delivering on the skills commitments in the Australian Government’s Made in Australia Skills Plan.

The agreement also includes an Australian Government commitment of $2.5 million to immediately improve training facilities in Tasmania, and $630,000 for essential VET data infrastructure reform.

All governments have also agreed to a vision and guiding principles for longer-term VET reform to commence in 2024.

Blackmans Bay Primary students brighten Christmas

Thanks to the generosity of Blackmans Bay Primary students and families, Christmas will be brighter for locals in need.

On Thursday, December 8, Blackmans Bay Primary School (BBPS) held a charity Uniform Free Day.

In exchange for wearing casual clothes to school, students were asked to bring a gift or gold coin to be donated to Jireh House women's refuge.

Jireh House, 24 hour crisis accommodation, provides support for local women and children made homeless due to domestic violence and other life crises.

Sadly, there will be a record number of women and children needing to stay at Jireh House during this Christmas season.

Often arriving at the shelter with nothing but the clothes they are wearing, Christmas gifts are a luxury they cannot typically afford.

The overwhelming response from the BBPS community made this year's gift drive a great success.

In addition to gifts, cash donations enabled the purchase of $20 vouchers, which will be used to purchase gifts or much needed groceries.

The gift drive has been a simple and very tangible way for students to demonstrate the spirit of Christmas that has a huge impact on the recipients.

Acting Principal Angela Burbury and her administrative team fully supported the annual gift drive, now in its seventh year.

The gifts and vouchers will be distributed among the families staying at Jireh House over Christmas.

Chloe and Angus Stevenson helping sort some of the many donated gifts. (PS)

The new signage at the Kettering ferry terminal advises what visitors to Bruny Island can do to help manage the island's cat population. (PS)

Keep the cats off Bruny

Keep an eye out for new signage at the Kettering ferry terminal that is raising awareness about the impacts of feral, stray and domestic cats on Bruny Island and what visitors can do to help.

Every year, around 150,000 visitors head over to enjoy the island's stunning landscapes and abundant wildlife.

Bruny Island is a wilderness hotspot, with significant populations of threatened species including Eastern Quolls, Forty-spotted Pardalotes and Hooded Plovers found across Bruny Island.

However, they are under threat from feral, stray and roaming domestic cats.

National Resource Management South (NRM) is supporting efforts to address the issue of cat impacts on the island's wildlife through an Australian Government funded project.

Through the combined efforts of multiple partner organisations (including Kingborough Council, Biosecurity Tasmania, Bruny Farming, weetaoona Aboriginal Corporation and the Ten Lives Cat Centre) over 100 cats have been removed from the island over the last two years.

Project partners have also been helping the local community understand and comply with the Bruny Island Cat By-law.

Visitors to the island can also contribute to this effort. Catherine Young, Senior Project Officer with NRM South, sees the community playing an important role in cat management on Bruny Island.

"It's been great to see the cumulative impact of the project so far," Catherine said.

"We're learning a lot about the importance of using varied approaches to tackle this issue.

"Letting the community know what they can do to help is just one part of this and we're encouraging any visitors to the island to report any sightings of roaming cats, to not feed stray cats and, for anyone travelling to the island with their cat, to keep it contained on their property."

This project is supported by NRM South through funding from the Australian Government's National Landcare Program.

Kingborough Real Estate Guide

Versatile country living

3-bedroom, 2-bathroom family home with a lovely view ... and an amazing garage workshop on a large block of land ... close to some of the most beautiful beaches in the region as well as schools, public transport, supermarket, fabulous butcher, and pub.

And it's only a 15-minute drive away from Kingston and 25 minutes to Hobart.

This property offers the potential for a semi-rural/coastal lifestyle in a really attractive part of southern Tasmania.

The main living accommodation has a large open-plan design with the contemporary kitchen occupying the centre of attention.

On one side of the kitchen is the lounge and on the other side is the dining and family area.

A wood burning stove heats this area in the cooler months.

In the dining area are two sets of large bi-fold doors opening out onto a substantial balcony.

When the doors are open the character of the home changes completely with the outside becoming part of the living space.

This is a sensational part of the home with views out over the water.

Off the main living room are three good sized bedrooms, two with built-in robes and the master with a walk-in robe and ensuite.

The master bedroom also has a patio door leading out onto a private deck.

The icing on this rather delicious slice of Snug is the three bay garage workshop.

Everyone knows how hard it is to find a good home with this type of facility already built.

And you just found it!

Rounding out the home's facilities is the solar power installation and under floor insulation and NBN connected.

For those unfamiliar with Snug this region is undergoing a surge in growth and services are catching up as demonstrated with the opening of a good supermarket a few years ago.

The beautiful beaches of Snug and Coningham are literally on your doorstep and if the briney runs in your veins the waterways of the part of Tasmania are spectacular with everything from open water sailing to cruising possible in the d'Entrecasteaux Channel and beyond.

Walking enthusiasts are well catered for with a variety of tracks and walks nearby.

Snug can be considered the gateway to the Channel and Bruny Island regions, and the pace of life here can be whatever you decide it to be.

Kingborough Real Estate Guide

Idyllic Channel living

Set amidst picturesque rolling green hills, with a stunning natural bush backdrop, and overlooking the magnificent D'Entrecasteaux Channel, this is quintessential Tasmanian living at its best.

Built by locally renowned Reynolds Design and Building, the home is designed to maximise living space whilst creating a serene and peaceful retreat.

A partially covered deck wraps the home on three sides, extending the living space and promoting an easy connection to the natural surrounds.

At the heart of this home is the impressive open-plan kitchen, living and dining space.

Stunning Tasmanian oak flooring and extensive cedar framing add warmth to an otherwise bright and contemporary space.

The double glazing throughout and use of insulation in all walls, ceiling and flooring further enhances the quiet calm and comfort of the home.

The kitchen impresses with generous workspaces centred around fabulous granite bench tops and will have you entertaining in style, with excellent appliances, including induction cooktop, pyrolytic oven and warming drawer.

A wide hallway leads to the three double bedrooms, all boasting breath-taking water views.

The master has a spacious walk-in wardrobe and ensuite.

The study could easily serve as a fourth bedroom if required.

Well thought out spaces sees an undercover entertaining area and boot room which also provides an all-weather BBQ area and shelter to and from the double garage.

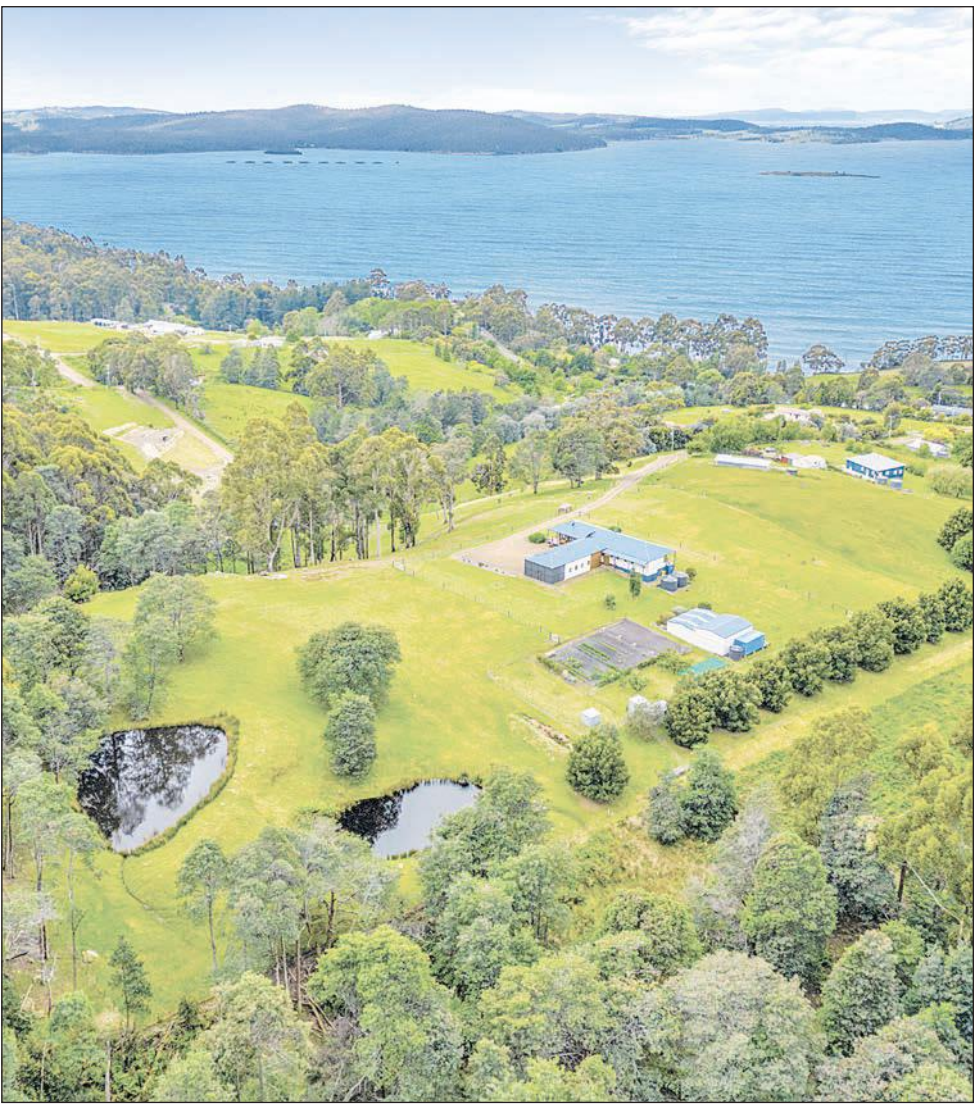

There's an exceptional, fully fenced vegetable garden, chook run and prolific, established orchard that will keep the family happy year-round.

Lovingly and fastidiously maintained, the current owners have spared no expense on the extensive infrastructure.

This property is impressive from start to finish.

Flowerpot is an incredibly picturesque suburb in the heart of the famed 'Channel' region just 40 minutes south of the Hobart CBD.

Feedback on local government elections

In 2022, the Rockliff Liberal Government introduced compulsory voting at local government elections for the very first time through the Local Government Amendment (Elections) Act 2022.

This key reform sought to increase voter participation and strengthen connections between Tasmanian communities and their local council.

The elections held in October saw a statewide voter turnout of 84.79 per cent, a massive increase in participation compared with previous local government elections, where voter turnout frequently sat below 60 per cent.

The government wants to hear from the community and stakeholders regarding their experiences and perspectives with the 2022 local government elections.

Responses will be collated and overall findings presented in an aggregated report that will be published on the Office of Local Government website.

The Office will also provide the feedback received to the independent Tasmanian Electoral Commission (TEC).

The TEC issues a public report after each local government election, including detailed turnout rates by council area, age and gender, and informality rates.

The information gathered from this process will also pave the way for a more formal review of the legislative framework for local government elections, which will be undertaken in 2023.

To participate in the survey, visit the Office of Local Government's website at <https://www.dpac.tas.gov.au/lg-elections>.

Alternatively, contact the Office of Local Government on (03) 6232 7022 or localgovernment@dpac.tas.gov.au.

The survey will be available until midnight on January 30, 2023.

Volunteers worked on Davis Flat and Nierinna Creek Reserve at Tramway Hill Landcare Group's recent Working Bee. It was noted the culvert under the ford at Nierinna Creek Reserve had been cleared. (PS)
